Demos Want Names Of Fired Subversives

Seek Facts For Claims Nixon Made

WASHINGTON (AP)—Demands that the Eisenhower administration disclose the names of "every single subversive thrown out of government" in the last two years came Saturday from two Democratic senators.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said the new Democratic-controlled Congress which meets in January "will want the names of these people, not the numbers."

Senator Mansfield (D-Mont.) told a newsman: "We will go into this question of subversion. We will insist on a complete breakdown for the American people. We will insist on full publicity of Vice President Nixon's allegations and the basis on which he made them."

The Civil Service Commission announced several weeks ago that the Eisenhower administration had separated 6,926 security risks from the federal payroll through last June. Of these 2,611 were fired, the Commission said, and 4,315 resigned. Out of the total, the Commission said, 1,743 had information in their files "indicating" subversive associations in "varying degree."

Nixon and other influential Republican campaigners repeatedly referred to these results of the administration's security program, contending it "got rid of thousands" of Communists, subversives and other security risks.

Mansfield said Democrats also will demand to know whether any administration officials made campaign use of what he called classified FBI files.

He cited a speech he said Nixon made in Montana on Oct. 23 referring to 12 "cases," in each of which the vice president said an individual government employee was cleared by loyalty boards set up by the Truman administration only to be found a security risk under the Eisenhower security program.

Mansfield said Nixon referred to these employees as "A," "B," "C," and so on through the 12 cases. He declared with some heat: "We don't want all those numbers and letters. We want the names. And we want to know if the files of the FBI were opened up for political purposes."

Asked if he expected the Eisenhower administration to cooperate in such a probe by Democrats, Mansfield said: "That will be their responsibility. They have made the charges. They have a duty to cooperate."

BARS WORKERS

BAMBERG, Germany (AP)—Mayor Luitpold Weegmann has challenged American authorities to use force if they want three Regnitz River bridges here prepared for demolition in case of war.

He ordered Bamberg police this week to bar U.S. employed German workers who are installing chambers for explosives in strategic West German roads and bridges as a part of Allied defense planning.

Corrigan's Lengthy Questioning Irks Judge

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard's defense lawyers were on the spot Saturday for their lengthy questioning at his first degree murder trial.

"I have an inquiring mind," retorted defense attorney William J. Corrigan. "I intend to question everything. That's my job."

After three weeks in court, the trial has yet to get beyond the first state witness—Dr. Lester Adelson, the deputy county coroner who autopsied the slain Marilyn Sheppard, wife of the 30-year-old osteopath.

Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin grew restless Friday at the defense's daylong cross-examination of Dr. Adelson, almost unprecedented in its minuteness and detail. The judge said he had never tried a case where so much time was devoted to establishing the cause of death.

He threatened Corrigan with Saturday court sessions unless the defense speeds up.

At one point, Corrigan bridled at the court and shouted:

"I'm going to take all the time necessary, your honor."

Within replied.

Gen. Collins To Arrive At Critical Moment In Viet Nam's History

Beat Son To Death After Drinking Bout, Father Says

CHICAGO (AP)—A young father who came home after drinking six or seven bottles of beer told police he slapped and slammed his 6-month-old son to death early today because the infant was crying.

Ernest Sioy said Sylvester Grimes, 26-year-old laborer, signed a statement describing the attack after first contending the baby was injured accidentally in a fall from his bathtub.

Grimes and his wife, Carmella, 31, also parents of 5-year-old twins, were questioned after they brought the baby to a hospital for treatment.

The boy, Rodney, already was dead apparently from a skull fracture. Bruises covered much of his body. Hospital attendants summoned police after noting the extent of the injuries.

Arabs, With U.S., British Support, Plan Defense Lines

LONDON (AP)—Arab statesmen have started new moves—with strong British and U.S. support—to set up a Mideast defense system against Communist aggression.

Diplomats report a flurry of secret exchanges among the Middle East capitals on plans to build a security network tied in with the West. London and Washington are encouraging this long hoped for trend with promises of military and economic aid.

Organization of a Mideast defense system—extending over the oil laden land bridge between Europe, Asia and Africa—would close the last gap in the West's defense ring around the Communist bloc.

Iraq's Premier Nuri Said has taken the lead by proposing that some of the eight Arab League states link up with the Turkey-Pakistan alliance. Turkey is a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Western diplomats find Egypt, once the chief opponent of Arab military cooperation with the West, moving toward a reversal of her traditional stand.

Syria and Lebanon would be likely to follow Egypt's lead in seeking a defense arrangement outside the weak Arab League.

Washington and London are urging Iran to team up with Iraq in linking with the Turkey-Pakistan alliance. This would consolidate the northern tier of Mideast states, which front on the Soviet Union. This project has been given top priority by British and American diplomats.

Large deposits of manganese ore recently have been found in Liberia.

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—President Eisenhower's special representative, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, is arriving here at a critical moment in the struggle to prevent communism from grabbing another big chunk of Southeast Asia.

Not since President Truman dispatched Gen. George C. Marshall to China in 1945 to attempt to bring the Communists into a coalition government has an American military man been entrusted with such a tough and delicate job.

Collins, who was named by the White House on Wednesday to "coordinate the operations of all U.S. agencies" in Viet Nam, is expected here Monday. Actually, his assignment is to try to bring order out of the political chaos now existing in the non-Communist South. If it is not done soon, there seems little chance Viet Nam can be saved from a Communist victory at the polls two years from now when a unified government is chosen under terms of the Geneva armistice agreement. The former Army chief of staff has the personal rank of ambassador during his mission.

Collins must undertake a difficult diplomatic chore without seeming to interfere in the South's internal affairs, carefully avoiding the oversteering toes of high strung Vietnamese.

This, in general, is the situation which confronts the American envoy.

Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, ardent nationalist and anti-Communist, is at the head of a government which has no real power because he is unable to exact obedience either from the national army or from the national police force.

His hold on the army has been broken by the tactics of Chief of Staff Nguyen Van Hinh, son of a former Premier. Hinh defied Diem two months ago after he had been accused of political ambitions. The army, believing their chief was being martyred, backed him.

Towboat Owners Shoot At Union Men In Dispute

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—A dispute between union men and officers of two towboats of the J. W. Banta Lines erupted into gunfire early today, and a union organizer was wounded.

Gordon Knapp of St. Louis, an organizer for the CIO National Maritime Union, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital here with a bullet wound in an arm.

The towboats moved off up the Ohio River, the barges in tow, without authorities boarding the vessels. They presumably were headed for Louisville, Ky.

Police Chief Earl A. Shepard of Cairo said several shots were fired from the towboat M-V Kishwaukee and the George Banta but that Knapp and four union pickets at the scene were unharmed and did not return the fire. The union men said from 30 to 40 shots were fired at them.

Murray; Contract Issue Damages Atomic Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas E. Murray said Saturday that Dixey Yates power issue has diverted top-level commission attention from vital atomic weapons problems.

Murray, who abstained from the Atomic Energy Commission vote approving the power project, told the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee:

"I can assure you that the time spent on this highly controversial and political matter is increasing neither our weapons know-how nor our weapons production, at a time when this is of the utmost importance."

Murray's statement led to clashing opinions as to what should be done. Chairman Cole (R-NY) of the Atomic Committee took the position the committee should waive a waiting period and let the contract go through to end what he termed damage inflicted on the atomic program by the controversy.

Rep. Holtfield (D-Calif.) said, on the other hand, that the contract should be subjected to further, intensive scrutiny.

Mental Patient Admits Killing Michigan Nurse

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—Police said an 18-year-old mental hospital patient, who previously complained about uncontrollable sex desires, told them Saturday he raped and strangled an attractive blonde nurse he described as "awfully pretty."

Louis M. Smith, a 135-pound, 5-foot-7 patient, committed to Kalamazoo State Hospital Feb. 3 after sexual offenses against young girls, was jailed in the brutal slaying of Miss Marilyn Kraai, 20. A red pencil led police to him.

The nurse's body was found last night in a hospital therapy room. She had been choked to death with a patient's necktie.

Garrett Gerlois, Kalamazoo detective, said Smith told him in a signed statement:

"I did it, I did it, I'm sorry. I don't know why I did it. It was an impulse, I guess. But she was awfully pretty. I wish I were dead."

Prosecutors will decide whether to charge Smith with murder, or recommend a transfer to Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

Gerlois said Smith first denied the slaying but admitted it when shown his red mechanical pencil found near the body.

The statement said he had killed Miss Kraai by grabbing her around the throat, holding her down, and tying a necktie around her neck. Smith said he dragged her some 35 feet into the room where he raped her.

The statement said Smith lured the nurse downstairs by asking her to recover a deck of playing cards in the therapy room.

Unfair To Call Teachers 'Red', Bishop Oxnham Says

DES MOINES (AP)—"Men who declare that in every little Red Schoolhouse there is a little Red teacher, bear false witness that is well near treason," Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnham of Washington, D.C., told the Iowa State Education Assn. centennial convention Saturday.

In remarks prepared for a general session of convention for which 13,000 delegates are registered, Bishop Oxnham asserted "the teaching profession deserves better treatment at the hands of the American people."

"It is unfair and un-American," he said, "to call upon our teachers to serve in crowded classrooms and in antiquated structures for inadequate remuneration... but what is even worse, the teacher has had to face the criticism of ignoramus who have gratuitously questioned the teacher's patriotism."

Bishop Oxnham said "self-appointed illiterates have organized agencies under high sounding names for the alleged purpose of saving our schools from subversion" and have "contributed to undermining the very bastion of the free way of life."

He added:

"No Communist could want more than to have the American lose faith in our school system."

FLIER ATTEMPTS NON-STOP FLIGHT TO PARIS

NEW YORK (AP)—Max Conrad, light plane long-distance flier, took off from Idlewild Airport today on an attempted non-stop flight to Paris.

He departed at 10:27 a.m. (CST) in a twin-engine Piper Apache plane, equipped with three extra gasoline tanks to give it a total capacity of 360 gallons.

Conrad, father of 10 children, said he hoped to make the trip in 18 to 22 hours, but that he had sufficient fuel for 28 hours of flight.

For sustenance he took along only a box of graham crackers, a grapefruit and two bottles of soft drinks.

Alaskan Bases Within Range Of Russian Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Major Alaskan air bases, keystones in the outer defenses for the United States, are believed to be within range of missiles which Russia has now and could fire from her Siberian mainland.

The same missiles—reported to be a greatly improved version of the original German V-2 weapon and a mere forerunner of others still being developed by the Soviets—impose a similar danger to the cities and military bases of Western Europe.

As used by the Germans in bombardment of London in the latter days of World War II, the V-2 was fired from a distance of only a little over 200 miles.

But according to information reaching this country and subjected to scientific and other intelligence assessment, the present models of the V-2 have a range of 800 miles or more, with good accuracy. This is the result of greatly improved propellant for the rocket engine and of better aerodynamic design.

The Alaskan bases, like Ladd Field near Fairbanks and Elmendorf near Anchorage, have two primary missions: as bases for interceptor planes to block any bombers flying from Siberia for target cities in the United States; as the take-off point for United States Air Force medium and heavy bombers on retaliatory missions to "take out" the fields in the Siberian area on which Soviet bombers would base.

But the big V-2 type rockets, plunging down from their high trajectory into the upper stratosphere, attain a terminal velocity of about 3,500 miles per hour. Their height and speed make radar virtually useless for either detection or tracking and render utterly impossible interception and destruction by even the swiftest of jet fighters.

First knowledge of such a missile attack would be with the explosion.

Russia Observes 37th Anniversary Of Revolution

MOSCOW (AP)—Deputy Premier M. Z. Saburov Saturday night kicked off the festive weekend celebrations of the 37th anniversary of the Russian Revolution by censoring Soviet factory and farm workers for lagging production.

He said additional controls would be imposed to develop further the Soviet economy.

Speaking in Moscow's Bolshoi theater before Premier George Malenkov and other top Soviet government leaders, Saburov also denounced the West's defense alliance moves, including rearming of West Germany, and repeated the charge that the United States is trying to encircle Russia with military bases.

He stressed the Soviet government's theme of coexistence—that capitalist and Communist nations can live peacefully together in the same world.

"As far as the U.S.S.R. is concerned," he said, "the basic principles of coexistence will be observed."

But he added that Russia stands ready to maintain its interests by force of arms, if necessary.

Outside the theater, hundreds of thousands of Soviet citizens milled around the brightly lit streets of downtown Moscow in gay holiday mood. They were entranced by electrical displays which were more elaborate this year than ever before.

The totals, with three suburban Cook County precincts missing, were: Mallett, 1,631,517; Wright, 1,639,507.

U.S. To Show Yoshida Japan Has Its Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have decided to give Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida every possible evidence of strong American support for Japan during Yoshida's round of conferences here beginning Monday.

Eisenhower and Dulles were reported Saturday to visualize the Yoshida mission as one of great importance in relation to the development of Japan as a bastion against the spread of Communist power into the Western Pacific.

Yoshida is expected to obtain assurances of 100 million dollars or more worth of surplus agricultural products, of support for Japan's efforts to open up desperately needed markets in Southeast Asia and the Americas, and all the military assistance which the Japanese government can use in building up defensive forces to a total of 210,000 men in the early future.

Essentially, however, officials said Japan's critical problem is not military but economic. Unless markets can be found for the products of her 87 million industrious people in the free world, there is a deep fear here that over the next few years Japan will tend toward communism.

Yoshida is due in Washington Sunday evening. He will call on Dulles Monday morning and then get the red carpet treatment throughout the week, including a luncheon at the White House.

His visit is the climax of a tour that has taken him through Canada and Europe. High U.S. officials said today that although it is not an emergency trip it does symbolize the problem of Japan's economic future and the great threat to the security of America's chain of island bases—Aleutians, Philippines—which will persist until some way is found for Japan to make a living.

At the heart of this slow burning crisis is the fact that U.S. expenditures in Japan are steadily declining from the peak of the Korean War. About two years ago troop spending and Army procurement gave Japan a dollar income of about 900 million. Today the volume is down to 600 million and falling steadily.

Hope To Bar Other Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders said Saturday they hoped to wind up before Thanksgiving the special Senate session which will consider the proposed censure of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). The session opens Monday.

Republican leader William G. Knowland of California and Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas also made clear at a joint news conference they want the session limited to the specific purpose for which it was called, barring some emergency.

They said, however, that the opening session on Monday will be very brief, with the Senate adjourning out of respect for members who have died since its recess August 20. Actual debate on the censure issue may not start until late Tuesday or even Wednesday.

McCarthy, who has been accused of conduct unbecoming a senator, has predicted that he will be censured by his colleagues and has spoken of the forthcoming session as a "lynch party" and a "circus." Both Knowland and Johnson declined comments on these statements.

A special Senate committee of three Republicans and three Democrats unanimously recommended last Sept. 27 after nine days of public hearing that McCarthy be censured by the Senate for his conduct.

It is the first censure case to come before the Senate in 25 years. Only three senators have been censured by their colleagues in that nation's history.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of the special committee, said he plans to call the members together Monday, to go over the draft of the resolution he is preparing to carry out its recommendations and findings.

McCarthy has accused Watkins and two other members of the special committee of being biased against him.

Knowland and Johnson have both had strong words of praise for the special committee.

Johnson told newsmen that it was composed of "six of the finest, ablest and most respected members of the Senate." Knowland said at the time the committee was appointed that he would be willing to go on trial for his life before any of its members.

TALCAHUANO, Chile (AP)—Water was lacking, but plenty of Chilean wine was on hand when fire broke out the other night at the restaurant-dance hall El Rosedale.

So patrons cracked open three casks and quenched the flames with about 500 gallons of the stuff. Then they were rewarded with other wine on the house.

Sen. Johnson Scoffs At Stalemate Talk Following Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson Saturday scoffed at any talk of a stalemate because of the election of a Democratic Congress and said the Democrats will cooperate with President Eisenhower if consulted in advance.

Johnson, Texas Democrat slated to become majority leader of the Senate in January, spoke at a crowded news conference.

"Talk about a stalemate is as ridiculous as talk about a cold war," he said, adding:

"If there is cold war, the Democrats are not going to provoke it."

This was a reference to President Eisenhower's statement last month that a Republican Congress must be elected to prevent "a cold war of partisan politics" between Capitol Hill and the White House.

"Eisenhower told his first post-election press conference that this campaign oratory probably was too strong," the tall Texan recalled.

He said he personally was disappointed by some of Eisenhower's campaign utterances and he reported that other Democrats are still burning at campaign statements by Vice President Nixon and other GOP orators that Democrats are "left wingers" or "the party of treason."

Glenn Cunningham To Tell Life Story

Jacksonville will be one of the stops on a very busy speaking schedule of Glenn Cunningham, famed former track star known to millions, who will speak at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening at the Grace Methodist church.

The talk will be heard at a union meeting sponsored by the Jacksonville Ministerial Association.

Cunningham is the greatest American miler of our time. He did most of his running during the 1930's and reached his greatest track performance when he ran a world record-breaking mile of 4 minutes 44 seconds. Dr. Cunningham still holds five (5) world records in track and has earned the highest academic degree, the Ph.D., from New York University at thirteen.

Glenn ran his first mile race in a surprisingly fast time of 5 minutes 18 seconds. He climaxed his college career at Kansas University by winning the Big Six Championship mile with a time of 4 minutes and 14 1/2 seconds.

As successful as Glenn Cunningham was on the cinder track, the real story is of his incredible recovery from a boyhood disaster. At the age of eight, while attempting to rescue his brother Floyd from a blazing fire in school, he was so seriously burned in both legs that doctors advised amputation of both legs. His parents decided against this, however, and hoped that by faithfully massaging the skinny red bones covered with scar tissues, that life would return to Glenn's legs.

After months of being confined to bed, Glenn's first attempts to walk were often failure. The toes of his left foot were completely gone, and his transverse arch was practically

PEAT DEPOSITS

Peat is the first step in the chinking of vegetable matter into coal. If there had been enough pressure and heat, it would eventually have become coal. Deposits of peat are being formed today in marshes and bogs in Ireland and in swamps, such as the Dismal Swamp in Virginia and North Carolina.

Sportsmen Point To Hunting Courtesies

With the hunting season approaching the Jacksonville Sportsman Club has conferred with various farmers and in the interest of improving farmer-sportsmen relations, has reported the complaints which most often result in loss of hunting privileges or dissatisfaction with hunters.

The club suggested that the following courtesies toward farmers be observed by sportsmen in the interest of maintaining good relations with landowners or tenants:

1. Do not hunt without permission.
2. Do not hunt where stock is pastured.
3. Close all gates.
4. Avoid damage to property, particularly fences and growing crops.
5. Use extreme care to extinguish matches or cigarettes.
6. Do not block entrances into fields when your car is parked.

It was emphasized that permission to hunt is a privilege that is given the hunter by the land owner. The hunter is a guest and should at all times extend every courtesy to his host, the farmer.

JUNIOR COMMISSIONER SWORN IN

Swimming English Channel Loses Exclusiveness, It's Done Too Often

FOLKESTONE, England (AP)—Twenty-five years ago anyone who swam the English Channel was a hero—in a class with Lindbergh, Byrd or other trail breakers.

But by the time new challenges were taking on the deceptive 22 miles between France and England this past summer, the distinction was practically negligible.

Few great physical feats of man have fallen into such low estate as swimming the channel. Today it's a little like climbing the Matterhorn—it has been done too many times.

The prestige of the channel was absolute until 1875 when a heavily mustached Englishman named Matthew Webb, followed by an entourage of nearly 50 newspapermen, trainers and officials, used the breast stroke to cross from Dover to Cape Gris Nez on the land expanded with pride and a monumental bust of the first man to conquer the channel stands today above the Dover harbor.

Since then there have been something over 67 and 84 successful swims, although only 28 are recognized by the Channel Swimming Assn. here. About 45 crossings, official and otherwise, have been made since 1950.

The Channel Conquerors Club is a relaxing, on-the-stomach system which makes breathing easy, trying to join. And according to Miss Ederle's discovery that the coaches, officials and Folkestone citizens to whom channel swimming is a major sport, other contributing factors are:

The use of radar, development of the crawl stroke, more knowledge of tides and currents, better feeding methods, better training and better grease to wipe on the swimmers to help keep out the cold.

After Webb, 36 years passed before another swimmer, also an Englishman, was successful. No one else completed the big swim until 1923 when two Americans and an Argentine succeeded. The first American was H. F. Sullivan. Like all of those before him, he came from England to France, a route swimmers consider, because of currents, at least 25 per cent harder than the France-to-England route.

In 1926 came the first woman to succeed—Gertrude Ederle, queen of the channel and one of the great stars of the Golden 20's.

Since Miss Ederle—and because of her—channel swimming became a brisk business. The publicity she won enticed hundreds of others to try for themselves and she found the real secret of channel success: the crawl.

All her predecessors used the breast or side stroke. The crawl is a relaxing, on-the-stomach system which makes breathing easy, trying to join. And according to Miss Ederle's discovery that the crawl was best reduced the feat from something only a super-swimmer could accomplish to something any good, well-trained swimmer could do.

Of the hundreds who have gone into the water, the most famous were three American women—Miss Ederle of New York City; Florence Chadwick of San Diego; and Shirley May France of Somerset, Mass.

The first two, Miss Ederle and Miss Chadwick, were great athletes. They succeeded. The most publicized failure probably in the history of sports was Miss France in 1926.

A year later the London Daily Mail ran off the first "mass swim." Twenty swimmers started from France. Eighteen finished. With that 950 average the reputation of the old channel was finished.

Viennese Find Old Saying 'Situation May Be Helpless—But Isn't Serious' Fits Living In Half-Free, Half-Occupied Nation

VIENNA (AP) — Viennese have a saying that the situation may be helpless — but it isn't serious. Despite its apparent contradiction, this approach to life is essential to today's citizens of Vienna. It needs it for his city is half alive, half dead; it's half hopeful, half despairing; half occupied, half free; half behind the Iron Curtain, half out of it.

Even more important, it is half existing in the present, half dreaming of its glorious past: glittering, swarming Vienna — the world's dream of wine, women and song. Some day the music from that Vienna Woods whispers that this is a dying city.

But it doesn't bother the Viennese. The reality of the present is harsh, but what of the past? The past is where Vienna prefers to live, and by that romantic yardstick nothing is serious. That helps explain why newspapers and magazines sell every copy when they feature stories of the old Hapsburgs while the Viennese continue to vote Socialists, why old women selling sausages at street corners save for months to buy an opera ticket, why the foreign conquests of home-grown singing stars are discussed for days.

Here is what the world of reality is like in Vienna:

The Communists (who've only 5 per cent of the vote) have been smirched the memory of Johann Strauss. They have an office at Praterstrasse 54, where Strauss wrote the "Blue Danube Waltz."

Soldiers of Russia, the United States, France and Britain, occupying Vienna since 1945, are in the great palaces and homes of the Hapsburg emperors.

Overcrowded apartments (50 per cent with no running water). Low wages for most, riches for a few. Sixty per cent of families childless and the death rate soaring over births. In 140 years at this rate of decline, "Vienna (present population 1,700,000) will be a ghost city."

No stirring parades of the Emperor to quicken the heart. No great ladies riding splendidly to lavish receptions. Instead, espionage and intrigue between East and West, danger of kidnapping for those in Soviet sectors. Occupation and little hope for freedom.

But then there's the warm, comforting other world: the dream of the past (and maybe of a future which looks the same). There are so many cheerful ghosts in it. And always, the not-so-blue Danube. There are the huge, gilded, Baroque buildings — reminders of 600 years in which the Hapsburgs ruled most of central Europe. There are the two-horse carriages still trotting through city traffic, reins held by cabbies with whiskers like Emperor Franz Josef.

There are ever-played, nostalgic songs, "O Du Lieber Augustin" is 300 years old, but still a favorite.

There are the recurring visions of the Emperor and his courtiers on the stage, at the opera, in the movies. Who does not rise and cheer and weep silently for the good old days when the apparitions does not make a Sunday pilgrimage to glittering Schoenbrunn Palace and show his sons. That's where they lived, those heroes of the past, in the summer.

With such a cold reality and such a dream, the Freudians (whom Vienna never acknowledged) might say that Vienna is schizophrenic. It wants to be a modern city, but more, it wants to live in the past.

The trouble started in 1916 when Emperor Franz Josef died and the Austro-Hungarian Empire came tumbling down after World War I.

The capital became "Red Vienna." The Socialists were in power and the Hapsburgs banned from dreamed of a brave new world. It never materialized.

Through the rocky '30s, Hitler's hated occupation, World War II and devaluation, the middle class declined, the remaining aristocracy was impoverished and those left were the poor and the new industrial rich.

That's the way it is today. Fifty-five per cent of the economy is under state control. Government and city monopolies run much—from railways to cigarette production—and have created a vast army of poorly paid state employees.

Much of the remaining economy is under the control of some 20 men in a network of interlocking industrial and banking directorships.

Because there are big profits for a few big firms, small businessmen take what they consider the only out: They form monopolies to fix prices. There are 500 such trade groups engaged in restrictive practices.

If you want to open a barber shop or a grocery, you have to get permission from your future competitors.

Every small tradesman thus is protected. He makes big profits on small sales, says "Kiss your hand" with exquisite charm and fears the reprimand of his medieval-like trade guild if he stays open a minute after 6.

Vienna has 10,000 police (Detroit, somewhat larger, has half as many), and city restrictions are fabulous. You pay a fine if you step on the grass in parks, and dogs must be muzzled or on a leash at all times, for example.

But the police are friendlier and more tolerant than in most of Europe.

High prices and low wages mean 80 per cent of working women do their family wash at home by hand. Only 10 per cent own a vacuum cleaner. Only 14 per cent of apartments have a bathroom (but the Emperor didn't have one of his own either).

But if it lacks modern services (there are only seven self-service

LAW WITHOUT CHIVALRY
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania Superior Court has ruled that a policeman can't do his job well if he spends too much time minding his manners.

A court decision said that "police officers cannot apprehend the enemies of society while carrying 'The Age of Chivalry' in one hand and Emily Post's latest edition in the other."

The ruling was made in upholding the conviction of a man who claimed most of the evidence against him was obtained through wiretaps.

MORGAN - SCOTT HOME BUREAU NEWS

What to Look For in Corduroy:

When you buy corduroy, look for soft pliable material that lends itself to draping. The cord should be straight, well raised and sharply defined; the pile should be firm; and the finish should be clean, lustrous and free from lint.

Corduroy, a favorite with home-makers during the past few years for clothing as well as for home decoration, has proved its value over and over. Besides being washable and in the low-cost bracket, it is extremely durable because the pile rather than the fabric takes the wear.

Manufacturers have been able to apply finishes that insure wrinkle-resistance, spot resistance and water repellency so that the uses for corduroy have increased greatly during recent years.

The general trend now is toward the soft, fine corduroys, the pinwale being most popular. You can choose from a wide variety of lovely colors or from the printed corduroys now on the market.

While most corduroys come in 36-inch and 39-inch widths, you may find some on the 41-inch bolts because some mills are experimenting with this new width. For the decorating trade, a few mills are even making corduroy 54 inches wide.

Knitted Undergarments Need Special Patching: When you patch knitted undergarments, remember that the patch and its stitching must "give" with the cloth. Therefore, you'll want to use a special type of mending.

It is important to use material that is of similar construction, weight and appearance. First, put embroidery hoops around the part to be mended, making sure the hole is stretched and the fabric is smooth. Then cut the patch the same shape as the hole but at least three-fourths inch larger. Unless the material is light in weight, or you know it will run, do not turn in the edge of the hole or the patch.

Place the patch under the hole on the wrong side of the garment, matching the ribs of the patch with those of the garment. Then pin the patch in place.

Next, baste the patch to the garment on the edge of the patch and also on the edge of the hole. Then catch-stitch or "crab-stitch" the patch in place, working from left to right along the two edges that are basted.

Take the first step of the stitch through the two thicknesses, and the next through a single thickness just off the edge of the patch. The depth and distance between stitches will depend on the type of material, but be sure to keep your stitches small and close together.

Causes and Cures for Gray Nylon Slips: Static electricity and inadequate washing are two causes of graying in your nylon slips. Because the charge of a dust particle is opposite from the charge of nylon, they are attracted to each other. To help prevent this attraction, there are commercial preparations on the market that you can add to the rinse water, or you can use white vinegar.

It's a good idea to wash your nylon slips after each wearing in water that is as warm as your hands can comfortably stand. You can use a synthetic detergent in either soft or hard water; but if you prefer to use soap, use it only in soft or softened water. A mild detergent is all right if you launder the slip after each wearing; if not, you'll be wise to use a stronger one. Wash your slip thoroughly, but not roughly, by hand or in the machine. If it has a delicate lace trim, you may want to use a mesh bag for machine washing. Rinse it well and roll in a towel before hanging, or else let it drip dry.

You usually don't need to iron nylon slips. If you prefer to do so, be sure to use a very low heat so that the nylon won't melt.

If your slip is quite gray, put a mild bleach in the water. There are special nylon bleaches. If you prefer, if you have to use a stronger bleach, be sure to follow the directions on the container regarding strength of solution and length of soaking time. You will probably need several washings to get the slip perfectly white again.

If the graying is particularly stubborn, or if you want to hurry the process, you can use color remover made by a commercial dye manufacturer.

For a Winter Bouquet: For a winter bouquet that is pleasing to the eye—use wood, bark and fungus containers that will lend an earthy atmosphere to the arrangements. Because you know, since the container is a part of the bouquet of dried flowers, fruits, gourds or seed pods, there must be harmony.

The floriculture specialists say that wooden salad bowls, slabs of wood, bark, or shield fungus make excellent vases or holders. So on your Saturday afternoon hike, look for some slabs of wood, bark or shield fungus that have a bit of character and can be used to enhance that staghorn succine, hellebore, or stramonium.

Besides using the wooden and bark pieces in vase style, you can also use them under a wooden salad bowl or beneath dish. You can do a number of imaginative things with wood, branches, and fungus, so when you're walking in the woods, fields, or along the roadside—keep your eyes open.

Keep the space on top of your television set clear. And if you have a table model, keep clear the space between the set and the table. This is a fire prevention measure. The heat which your television set generates will not cause fire if you provide for free ventilation.

Ground Broken for Home Economics Building: The hope for a new home economics building on the campus of the University of Illinois became a reality at the ground-breaking ceremony Oct. 19. The first shovelful of dirt was turned by Dean Emeritus Robert H. Hudelson.

Dr. Janice M. Smith, head, department of Home Economics, presided at the ceremony. Guests who made brief remarks included Mrs. Frances Watkins and Mrs. Doris Holt, representing the University Board of Trustees; President Lloyd Morey, Louis B. Howard, dean of the College of Agriculture; Miss Jean Dunsdale, president of the home economics club; Honorable Hazel A. McCaskrin and Honorable Maud N. Peppers, members of the 68th General Assembly, who introduced bills for a home economics building. Honorable Everett R. Peters, District 24 Senator; Mrs. John Clifton, past president Illinois Home Bureau Federation; Mr. Milton Kimpel, president IHBPF; Miss Jean Kimpel, representing the Illinois Agricultural Association and Dean Hudelson.

The speakers expressed appreciation to the women of the state, present and former of the home economics staff, and state administrators for the help they gave in making the dream a reality. Dean Hudelson dedicated the site to American homes, particularly those in Illinois.

Photo flash bulbs were introduced commercially in the United States in 1930.

Rev. Carson To Preach At Rozetta On 90th Birthday

JERSEYVILLE.—The Reverend A. B. Carson of Monmouth, Ill., a former pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, will observe his 90th birthday anniversary Nov. 9 by occupying the pulpit of the Baptist church at Rozetta in Henderson county, Illinois, where he served as pastor for 12 years prior to his retirement.

Following his 88th birthday anniversary, Mr. Carson announced his retirement. He was at that time the oldest active minister in Illinois. Following his retirement, he and his wife moved to Monmouth, where they have since continued to reside.

Mr. Carson was pastor of the First Baptist church in Jerseyville for nearly eight years, and resigned the pastorate here to accept one in Ohio in 1932. Following his pastorate in Ohio, he returned to Illinois and accepted the post at Rozetta where he remained for the ensuing 12 years.

The Reverend Carson has always been greatly interested in athletics and still maintains his interest in baseball.

He always maintained the practice of never repeating an old sermon. "I do not use old sermons," he once stated during a visit to Jerseyville a couple of years ago. "I write new ones for every service. I believe that is one way of keeping active and not developing dry rot. It would of course be easier to dig down in the barrel and get out an old one, but I prefer to keep busy both mentally as well as physically."

If the weather should be nice Nov. 9, the Reverend Carson expects to play at least nine holes of golf. This sport he has taken up in recent years since he became a "trifle" too old to play his favorite game, baseball.

OUR GROWING COMMUNITY STANDS READY TO SUPPORT OUR SAVIOUR'S HOSPITAL

Architect's conception of the hospital as it will appear when the new wing has been built and the old sections removed.

With an impressive record of service to our growing community for 58 years, Our Saviour's hospital plans for still greater service in the future. The hospital's modernization and new construction program calls for a minimum expenditure of $750,000. This amount is to be raised through voluntary gifts of businesses and of people in the area served by the institution.

Upon the completion of the program our growing community will be better equipped to restore health, to ease pain and to save life. This program indicates a progressive step of the area to fulfill the exacting requirements of a new medical area.

New York Stock Market

By RADER WINGET
NEW YORK (AP) — The election was a happy surprise for the stock market this week, and it celebrated with the most vigorous advance in more than 16 years.

On the way up it broke into new high ground for the past 25 years and touched off a major showing of bull market enthusiasm.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $4.90 on the week, the most that the average has gained in a single week since the final week of June, 1936. That was when the nation was shaking off the king-size setback that started in the recession of 1937.

The post-election drive ahead took the average up to a new 25-year high of $139.10, the best since Oct. 17, 1929, and it closed the week only slightly under that level.

The week before the election, caution was rampant in Wall Street, and the stock market made its greatest weekly decline in 14 months. Everyone was playing it safe for the election.

A change of heart came over the market on Monday, however, and prices advanced moderately. The talk then was that the election had been discounted too much in advance.

Wednesday morning found Wall Street interpreting the election results this way — the Republicans have done much better than expected, and the Administration's policy will not likely be affected despite Democratic gains.

The five most active stocks during the week on the New York Stock Exchange were: American Airlines up 2 1/2 at 180; Jones & Laughlin up 2 1/2 at 28; Sylvania Electric up 4 1/2 at 43 1/2; U. S. Steel up 3 1/2 at 59 1/2; and General Electric up 1 1/2 at 43 1/2.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

CHICAGO (AP)—Although hog supplies were the largest for any week thus far this year, the market this week managed to absorb all comers with scarcely a change. On balance for the week barrows and gilts lost 15 to 40 cents and sows declined around 25 cents.

Buyers for shipping accounts were an especially dependable outlet for the better weights of hogs. Buyers were rather unsuccessful in enlarging the price spread between meat types and heavier weights although there are increasing numbers of the latter showing up as the feeding season progresses.

Choice and better steers were steady to 50 cents higher with the outstanding top up a dollar, highest since April 5. Lower grades, however, were steady to 25 or more lower and bulls steady to 50 cents off. Vealers were mainly $1.00 to $2.00 lower although some held steady.

Yearling sheep were mostly steady but slaughter lambs and ewes jumped 50 cents at $1.00. Improvement in dressed lamb prices both at Chicago and on the Eastern seaboard accounted for much of the rise.

CATTLE HIT YEAR'S PEAK LAST WEEK

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Aided by a strong demand, cattle prices reached their highest level of the year last week at National Stockyards, the St. Louis Live Stock Exchange reported today.

Steers equalled the top price of the year, $27.50, and mixed yearlings reached $26.75 for the first time since October 1953.

Hog prices also showed the results for a strong demand and prices worked higher at most seasons. Lamb prices where somewhat higher, top grades selling at $21.00.

FINES ASSESSED IN POLICE COURT

A fine of $30 for speeding was assessed on Ernest R. Scott of this city in police magistrate's court Saturday morning.

Kenneth Vierok of Havana was fined $5 for running a stop sign. Six were fined for parking in restricted zones; two for obstructing traffic; one for double parking; one for drunkenness.

PASSAVANT'S WOODSON UNIT TO MEET NOV. 9

The Woodson unit of the Passavant Memorial Hospital Aid Society will meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 9, in the American Legion hall in Woodson.

The first electric lighting systems in the United States were installed in 1881.

I want to thank the doctors, nurses and nurse aides of Passavant hospital for their kindnesses and friends for cards and flowers.

TALKATIVE NEIGHBORS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The day of the country party line is rapidly becoming history, but apparently users haven't changed much since crank-and-talk days.

"Why, even in Nashville we don't have to read the papers to tell when the dollar-day sales are on," says Sam Youngblood, Tennessee general manager for the phone company.

"We know by the flurry of telephone calls in the afternoon when the housewives get home from shopping and start telling all the neighbors what they bought."

Mr. Glazer was born in Anderson, Ind., and began his studies of the violin in that community. In 1944 he continued his musical studies in Chicago under the direction of Morris Gombert, and he matriculated at Roosevelt College in Chicago where he earned both his Bachelor's and his Master's degrees in musical education.

At Roosevelt College, Mr. Glazer was concert master and assistant to Florian Mueller, conductor of the college symphony. He acted as a principal in the Chicago Civic Orchestra under George Schick, an associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Also he was a member of the first violin section of the Indianapolis Symphony and has appeared with this group in concerts on the radio and in television.

He has played under such conductors as Fabian Sevitzky, Karel Jirak, George Schick and Morton Gould. Membership in the MacMurray College string ensemble is open to any person playing a stringed instrument. This group will devote itself to studying the lighter classics as well as the more serious classics. The purpose of the ensemble is to provide instrumentalists with experience in ensemble playing and orchestral routine.

Peter was among several teenagers questioned yesterday and last night.

Peter and Geraldine went to grammar school together. Until recently they had taken the same cooking course in school. They lived around the corner from each other and "dated" until she broke off the association six months ago, neighbors said.

His body, clad only in socks, was found on the garage floor. A necklace was drawn tightly around her neck, but authorities did not believe the ornament was the instrument of death.

ONE-WAY TICKET—Mrs. Arthur Petersen, left, and Mrs. Chris Lorenz, of Bellevue, Neb., are highly indignant over the falling egg prices. When they found out Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson was in Omaha, they shipped him 5193 eggs so he could pay his way back to his Salt Lake City, Utah, home. The same trip on election day, 1952, only cost 2504 eggs.

FREE MEALS FEATURE CHICAGO DEFENSE TEST

CHICAGO (AP)—Some five thousand Chicagoans lined up for free meals Saturday in a Civil Defense emergency feeding exercise.

Food distributed at four points set up around the perimeter of Chicago included roast beef, fish, hamburger, potatoes, wieners, soup, onions, cake, coffee and cocoa.

The exercise was an experiment in feeding evacuees after a possible bombing attack.

Food was served under primitive conditions — cooked in mud brick fireplaces and eaten with the fingers.

Casualties? Four persons suffered burned or cut fingers while preparing the food.

Another free feed will be distributed Sunday under the same conditions. Food is donated by Chicago food suppliers.

WEATHER, EXPORTS DOMINATE TRADING DURING WEEK

By LAWRENCE N. ELDRED
CHICAGO (AP)—Soybeans were unable to sustain their drive to higher prices on the Chicago Board of Trade, but wheat, corn and lard established a strong market this week.

Day-to-day influences — mainly weather and exports — dominated most trading throughout the period and poor harvesting and storing weather kept farmers out of the soybeans and corn fields.

And since they couldn't harvest their beans those producers who normally follow the crop with soft winter wheat were unable to get their seedling done.

Lack of anticipated exports loosened rye from its heights and, once the slide set in, stop-loss sales uncovered on the way down placed the grain in the weakest position on the boards.

Wheat finished the week 1 1/4 cents higher, corn was up 1 1/2 cents and rye was 1 1/2 to 2 cents lower. Soybeans ended 3 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents off and lard was 25 to 65 cents higher.

Small accumulation of lard stock coupled with hogs being marketed at light weights gave the grease contracts easy rising on the leverage of a good demand.

Traders pretty much took the election in stride. They felt there was not enough change among congressmen from the main farm belt to alter the Benson farm program.

Drought Cuts Down Number Of Entries In 4-H Grain Show

The crops of Morgan county went through a drought last season. What they had to show in the annual 4-H crop show discouraged most of the 60 boys and girls who entered the 1954 crops project.

Only a handful of them showed up Saturday morning with their exhibits at the Farm Bureau building.

Judge Roland Espenscheid, vocational agriculture instructor at Franklin high school, said later "I was surprised at the high quality of the samples brought here today."

Place winners were: Corn: A ratings, David Hem-brough and Weldon Becker, East Side Juniors club; Lawrence Jones, Jolly Mixers; Carl Becker, Berea; Loren Thomas and Gary Mann, West Union Hustlers; B. Lowell Ankrom, James Williamson and Charles Finch, East Side Juniors; John Bergschneider, Franklin Straightshooters; Sammy Strang, Lone Star; Millie DeLong, West Union Hustlers.

Blueboys Drop Final Home Game Of Season To Central

I.S.D. Tigers Defeat Dupo 19-7, Crimson Lose Friday Night

DUPO—(Special)—Fullback Jack Rampley scored one touchdown and set up one more as the Illinois School for the Deaf Tigers defeated Dupo 19-7 for their 5th straight victory and their 7th win of the year here last night.

Neither team scored in the initial frame. In the second period the Dupo eleven picked up two first downs and were apparently on the march when Jack Rampley, ISD linebacker, intercepted a Dupo pass and carried it back to the 47. On the next play from the line of scrimmage Rampley smashed his way through the center of the line and raced the 47 yards for the first TD of the game. The attempted conversion was not good but the Tigers lead 6-0.

The Tigers came back after Dupo lost the ball on downs, to score their second touchdown before the half ended. This time it was Billy Zachary, running back, who carried the ball 47 yards for the second TD. The attempted conversion was not good. Tigers led at halftime 12-0.

The third period saw the rugged Dupo eleven put on a march of its own to score its lone tally. They drove 50 yards to score finally going over on a 17 yard pass play. The kick for point after was good.

The Tigers defense told the story in this third period. With the Tigers on their own 35 they punted only to have it blocked.

A Dupo back picked up the ball and began racing for the goal line. On the next play the hosts were off sides and this pushed them back to the eight yard line. On the next two plays Dick Thrash, Tiger captain, broke through and threw Dupo for losses of six and ten yards. This broke the backs of the hosts and the Tigers took over on their own 20.

Jack Rampley set up the final touchdown of the contest in the fourth period. The Tigers took over on their own 48. Rampley carried the pilskin 10 times on this drive before Duncan went around left end for a 17 yard touchdown gallop.

This time Merrihan booted the extra point and the Tigers came out on top of the 19-7 score.

After the Tigers scored their final TD Dupo tried five passes, picking up 40 yards before the visitors took over once more. With five seconds to go, Duncan fired a pass to Rampley who raced 40 yards to an apparent touchdown only to step out on the three yard line.

In the statistical department, Dupo attempted 25 passes, completing 9 and having four intercepted. ISD attempted five passes completing one. Dupo had 13 first downs while ISD was held to four.

The two touchdown difference in the ball game was probably due to the outstanding defensive play of Thrash, Kuttick and Rampley.

The Tigers end their season this Thursday afternoon when they battle the Jacksonville Crimson in a 2 o'clock battle.

By quarters:

Dupo 0 0 7 6-7
ISD 0 12 0 7-19

The Jacksonville Crimson lost their second game of the season last night as a spirited Taylorville eleven scored on a 75-yard pass play in the final period to end the Jacks' five game winning streak.

It was a beautiful pass play from quarterback Beatty to halfback Brassfield who caught the ball on the midfield stripe and raced the 60-yards for the game's only touchdown.

Brassfield came back to kick the extra point and give the visitors a 7-0 victory.

Taylorville had a TD called back early in the contest. After Jacksonville received, they were forced to punt on fourth down and the visitors took over on their own 42.

A pass play carried to the Jacks' 30 where another Beatty to Brassfield pass carried into the end zone.

However Taylorville was off sides and the TD didn't enter the record book. The Jacksonville line held at that point and the visitors were forced to kick.

It looked as if the Crimson might get rolling late in the initial frame after Woodward recovered a fumble and the Crimson took over on the 40. However Stillwell of Taylorville intercepted a Lewis pass and the Jacks were halted.

In the second period the visitors threatened again. They took over on their own 7 yard line and marched down field to the Crimson's four yard marker before the Jacks' line tightened their belts and held on four successive plays. This march was highlighted by the fine passing of quarterback Beatty and the running of Brassfield.

Taylorville had the ball most of the third period but the Jacks took over with three minutes to go and Larry Scott picked up three first downs before the Crimson lost the ball on the 45.

The ball changed hands several times in the fourth quarter after the visitors had scored on the 75-yard pass play.

The Crimson took over on their own 33 but failed to keep the pilskin long and Taylorville took over on the 32. However Max Roegge, who along with Jim Woodward, started another fine game, intercepted a pass on his own 26. The Jack's control was short lived, however, when Trier fumbled on the first play from scrimmage. But Roegge came back to recover a Taylorville fumble one play later on the three yard line to place the ball in Jacksonville's possession.

The Crimson began a march in the final minutes that ended on the Taylorville 23 yard line. Quarterback Billy Lewis hit Knight and Fairfield four times and picked up five yards running to place the ball on the 23. However the visitors line held at that point and the game ended 7-0.

By quarters:

Taylorville 0 0 0 7-7
Jacksonville 0 0 0 0-0

Auburn 32, Northwestern 0

The first score came when Grossner plunged four yards to a touchdown in the first period. The try for the extra point failed.

Franklin 13, Nokomis 6

FRANKLIN—(Special)—Coach Bill Farley's Franklin Flashes won their first game of the season last night as they defeated visiting Nokomis 13-6.

It was a scoreless battle in the first period as the defensive teams fought it out even-up. Nokomis drew first blood in the second period when Ruffing went off left tackle for a 12-yard touchdown jaunt.

The extra point was not good but the visitors enjoyed a temporary lead of 6-0.

By quarters:

Franklin 0 6 0 7-13
Nokomis 0 0 0 0-6

Rushville 26, Mt. Sterling 0

MT. STERLING—(Special)—Rushville defeated Mt. Sterling 26-0 in the final game of the season for the Hornets.

The visitors scored twice in the second period on an intercepted pass and a fumble. They scored again on an intercepted pass in the fourth period as the Mt. Sterling offense failed to click. Their final TD came on a 20-yard smash off tackle.

By quarters:

Mt. Sterling 0 0 0 0-0
Rushville 0 14 0 12-26

Pleasant Hill 20, Roodhouse 19

ROODHOUSE—(Special)—Visiting Pleasant Hill scored twice in the final three minutes to come from behind and defeat Roodhouse 20-19 in an Illinois Valley contest here last night.

It was a nip and tuck battle the first half with only one touchdown being scored. However the scoring punch of both teams came to light in the second period.

In the second quarter with 14 seconds to go, a fumble by Roodhouse was converted into a Pleasant Hill touchdown by Sudback. Windmiller ran the extra point and the visitors enjoyed a halftime lead of 7-0.

By quarters:

Roodhouse 0 0 13 6-19
Pleasant Hill 0 7 0 13-20

Turpin put on a one man show for the winners as he scored all four touchdowns to bring his season's total to 10. He scored in the initial frame on a 23 yard jaunt. Journey ran the extra point.

Winchester came back to tie the score at 7-7 when Redshaw smashed over from the one yard line. Benton converted to tie the count.

By quarters:

GREENFIELD—(Special)—Jerseyville jumped off to a 25-6 lead in the first half here last night to hand Greenfield an Illinois Valley setback.

Weller got the scoring under way for the winners in the first period when he went over from the one yard line. Their second TD came a few plays later when Witt plunged over from the two.

Two long 40-yard gallops by Edwards and Gelp accounted for Jerseyville's third and fourth TDs. Greenfield scored its lone touchdown in this second period when Spencer went over from the five.

The second half was a different ball game as the two teams put on a defensive show. The only score came in the fourth period when Edwards of Jerseyville went over from the five for his second touchdown of the evening.

FAN BREEZES

BY BILL MERRIS

When the Illinois College Blueboys dropped its final home game of the season to Central College last night it reduced the number of grid games on the local fields to one. The one remaining chance for local fans to see local high school teams in action will be Thursday afternoon when the Crimson and Tigers tangle on one of the two local fields. It is still in doubt as where the game will be played.

This Veterans Day battle has already taken top priority among "downtown coaches confabs." Can the deaf hold up under pressure of playing a bigger school? Is the deaf really as good as their record indicates or have they been playing weak teams? These are just a couple of the questions local fans are trying to answer.

Their coaches say the two schools played their toughest games Friday night. Taylorville in the opinion of coach Kramshaar, was the best club the Crimson has faced and the Tiger coach Spink thinks Dupo is a team that would give any club in this area a run for their money.

However you can't compare the scores of these two games or the teams themselves, since Dupo hasn't played Taylorville or any team Taylorville played. So we're right back where we started. We're going to play it safe and follow the advice of one fellow we overheard, "I don't have any idea who's gonna win, but I'm sure gonna be there comes kickoff time."

Dates to remember: Monday evening 8:00 at the Pittsfield High school for the basketball rules interpretation meeting for all coaches, officials and anyone else interested.

Thursday—Entries for the 19th Annual City Bowling Tournament must be in by this date. The team event will be held next Sunday.

Every Monday night at the Illinois College gym for the YMCA "fun and fitness course."

Arkansas Tops Rice 29-15; 7th Win In Row

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(Special)—Arkansas' undefeated Razorbacks drove from behind to two final-quarter touchdowns Saturday and smothered the Rice Owls, 29-15, for their seventh straight football conquest of the season.

The victory put the Porkers in the position of needing no more than a tie with Southern Methodist next Saturday to win their first clear-cut Southwest Conference title since 1936.

While a capacity crowd of 38,000 looked on in War Memorial Stadium here, the Razorbacks' great Henry Moore riddled the Rice line and sophomore tailback George Walker passed with perfection.

The game had been billed as a duel between Dicy Moegle, the Southwest's top rusher and leading scorer, and Moore, who stands second to the Rice ace in both departments.

Neither of the men let the fans down as both turned in sparkling performances.

Moore, noted for his high diving plunges, scored one Arkansas touchdown and set up another with three short backs into the line. The Arkansas star gained 85 yards.

Moegle was by far the outstanding player on the field. The big swift halfback never got across the Arkansas goal line, but he carried the ball 117 yards; returned four punts for 73 yards, and caught three passes for 27 yards.

Minnesota leveled ground and futile Oregon State Saturday with a fierce ground attack that, spiced with Gene Cappelletti's three touchdown passes, brought the Gophers their sixth victory of the season, 44-6.

Minnesota, whipped to touchdown fury by Bob McNamara's line smashes, scored the first three times it handled the ball and rammed home three more touchdowns in the third quarter to turn the game into a landslide.

Darrell (Shorty) Cochran noted three touchdowns and McNamara two before coach Murray Warmath, prodding Minnesota to its most successful season since 1949, went to his reserves.

McNamara, newly installed at fullback, stunned the Oregon State sophomores with a line-blasting show that piled up 161 yards in 14 carries for an average of 11.5 yards a try.

Beaten five times previously, Oregon State recovered briefly in the second quarter against Minnesota reserves to score on a none yard pass from quarterback Bob Clark to end Leon Hittner, both third stringers.

Otherwise, it was a consummate rout for Minnesota, beaten only by Michigan and still in the running for the Big Ten championship. Mc-

Namara raced 48 yards for the first touchdown. Cochran went 29 yards for the second, then took a pass from Cappelletti for a 35-yard scoring play late in the first quarter.

The Gopher regulars, scoring six of eight times they handled the ball, got three more in the third quarter. Cappelletti pitched 22 yards to Cochran and 11 yards to Jim Soltan for two and McNamara scored from one yard out.

Gopher reserves added a safety in the final period.

American Loop Owners Expected To Put OK On A's Shift To KC

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—American League directors are expected to override the opposition of Washington's Clark Griffith Monday and put a final okay on the transfer of the Philadelphia Athletics' baseball franchise to Kansas City.

The league heads meet here to take their fourth action in six weeks on the on-again-off-again situation.

Griffith, white-haired owner of the Washington Senators, said he opposes the shift and added: "We think we have enough votes to block it."

He said the Detroit Tigers would vote with him in opposition to the move while there was a good chance a third vote—enough to block it—would come from either the Boston Red Sox or Cleveland Indians.

A three-fourths vote—that is, six of the eight clubs—is needed to approve the sale of the franchise to Chicago financier Arnold Johnson and the transfer of the club to Kansas City.

Johnson announced Thursday purchase of the stock of Connie Mack Sr., 91-year-old founder of the Athletics, for $604,000, and a tentative agreement to buy the stock of Mack's two sons, Earle and Roy, for $450,000 each.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, might have insisted that an Oct. 12 vote by the league approving the shift be allowed to stand. Under the constitution this would have required a vote to void the previous agreement.

White Sox said, "We're 100 per cent for the shift to Kansas City." Cleveland apparently is the key club in the vote and its general manager, Hank Greenberg, said in New York.

"We won't take a position until the Monday meeting. We want to sit down and see what's best for the league. We're open minded on the subject."

Griffith's opposition to the shift is based on the prospect that the Athletics at Kansas City would be classed as a Western team, making Baltimore an Eastern entry. This would give Baltimore and Washington conflicting home dates.

Michigan Keeps Bowl Hopes Alive With 14-7 Triumph Over Illinois

By JOHN BARBOUR

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Up and down Michigan, sparked by Lou Baldacci, a quarter-back, smothered Illinois' speedy back field 14-7 Saturday, to keep alive its faint hopes for a Rose Bowl trip.

It was the fourth straight Big Ten loss for Illinois, the team that shared the conference title last year with Michigan State. It also broke a four year winning streak the Illinois had held over Michigan.

Michigan struck for two touchdowns in the second quarter to come from behind after Illinois scored in the first period.

Baldacci, the regular quarter-back, led the way to the first Michigan score, carrying the ball from fullback in six plays of a nine-play series that covered 60 yards. Baldacci scored from the Illinois 2.

Michigan's second touchdown came on an 89 yard march in six plays with halfback Danny Cline leading the way by running 36 yards and passing for 46.

His pass to Jim Maddock scored with 20 seconds to go in the first half.

The Illini struck first with two sophomore backs, Harry Jefferson and Abe Woodson, doing the work. Woodson scored from the Michigan 6, one play after Jefferson had made a first down.

Sophomore end Ron Kramer, who made Michigan's two extra points, has kicked 11 straight conversions. Bob Wiman kicked the only Illinois conversion.

Michigan, a two touchdown favorite, had its hands full all day. Jefferson played a brilliant game as an understudy for injured J.C. Caroline, who didn't make an appearance until the second half began. Jefferson carried on seven of the 11 plays it took Illinois to cover the 72 yards for the first score.

Woodson broke loose once in the second period to run 62 yards through the Michigan secondary for what appeared to be an Illinois touchdown, but it was called back for a five yard backfield-in-motion penalty.

Illinois threatened on many occasions. After the halftime intermission they stifled a Michigan drive and then moved from their own 9 to the Michigan 16, where the Wolverines' defense held.

But after that the Michigan team controlled the ball, keeping the Illini bottled up in their own territory.

Two Illinois fumbles and a blocked Illinois punt helped the Michigan defense.

Illinois 7 0 0 0-7
Michigan 0 14 0 0-14

Illinois scoring: Touchdown, Woodson Conversion, Wiman.

Michigan scoring: Touchdowns, Baldacci, Maddock. Conversions, Kramer 2.

Wesleyan Nips Lake Forest 13-7

LAKE FOREST, Ill.—(AP)—Illinois Wesleyan scored twice in the second period Saturday to defeat Lake Forest 13-7 and keep in the running for the College Conference of Illinois football title.

The victory was Wesleyan's third in four CCI starts. It was Lake Forest's third loss in six league games.

Bob Klings scored on a one-yard quarterback sneak for Wesleyan early in the second. The touchdown capped an 80-yard drive that featured Klings' 56-yard pass to halfback John Wilson. Gino Cantele converted.

Later Klings hit Cantele with a 22-yard touchdown pass. Cantele's try for point was wide.

Lake Forest tallied in the third on a 47-yard drive capped by halfback Ed Williams, who drilled over the final inches. Jim Specht added the point.

SMU's Late Rally Beats Texas 6-3

DALLAS (AP)—Southern Methodist dug out of a 3-0 hole with a desperate second-half touchdown drive, then held off Texas A & M for a 6-3 victory in a Southwest Conference football game Saturday.

The Mustangs, with only a tie marring their conference record, thus stayed within striking distance of unbeaten Arkansas. The Mustangs meet the Porkers next week and the Razorbacks could take the conference championship with a win.

Elwood Kettler's 14-yard field goal in the first period gave the Aggies a 3-0 lead but SMU won the game in the third when Duane Nutt crashed over from the one to end a 50-yard march.

Missouri Battles Colorado To Tie

COLUMBIA, Mo.—(AP)—Missouri's Bob Bauman smashed two feet with a minute and six seconds remaining for a touchdown that gave Missouri a 19-19 tie with Colorado in a Big Seven football game Saturday and probably eliminated both teams from Orange Bowl consideration.

Ray Detring's try for the conversion that would have kept Missouri in the bowl picture was blocked by Frank Bernardi of the Buffaloes. The ball hit Bernardi flush in the face, breaking his nose.

Bauman scored after Colorado had stopped one Missouri threat six inches short of pay dirt.

The ding-dong game left Missouri with a 2-1-1 Big Seven record and Colorado 2-2-1. A crowd of 24,000 watched in warm clear weather.

Missouri's fourth CCI victory against one defeat, matching the record of Wheaton which had a non-conference game Saturday. Elmhurst suffered its fifth defeat without a victory.

Larry Kane, quarterback, and Ted Smith, halfback, each scored two

At the Fall Conference for teachers of English in Illinois it was announced that two Jacksonville high school teachers, Miss Emma Mae Leonard and Miss Maurine Self, had been appointed to serve on the state board for English Teachers. Miss Leonard will work with the state program committee and Miss Self will be the manager of the Jacksonville district.

Both attended the conference held Oct. 29 and 30 at the University of Illinois. The topic of discussion on Friday was "What English Skills Should be Expected of the High School Graduate?" On Saturday there were group discussions on "How We Do It" covering vocabulary, spelling, choice of literature for adolescents, use of English publications for teachers of English, articulation of junior and senior high school English, use of radio and television, plays for high school students and helping poor readers.

The resolution, "That the primary job of English teaching is to prepare all students to read and write so that each and every one may become an informed, thoughtful and articulate member of our democratic society," was adopted. The following resolutions were also reaffirmed: 1. "That more emphasis be placed on world literature, on propaganda analysis, on critical listening, on clear, effective expression." 2. "That the size of high school English classes be kept as nearly as possible to a maximum of 25 students so that all can be given more effective training in spoken and written English." 3. "That every teacher of English solicit the aid of his principal in making all teachers of the faculty conscious of the need for better English and in enlisting their cooperation in holding all pupils to the highest possible standards of speaking and writing." 4. "That all teachers of English have training in speech, grammar and composition as well as in literature."

Members of the Conference expressed much interest in the current cooperative effort of the entire high school faculty of the Jacksonville high school to encourage and teach better spelling in all departments.

WELL DIGGERS BUSY TODAY

Employees of the Ranney Method Water Supplies Co., Columbus, Ohio, are turning on the steam. They're building the well for Jacksonville's pipeline-to-the-river project.

Tests indicate that this well, sunk into the water-bearing gravels of the Illinois River valley, will provide 10 million gallons water "every day as long as the Illinois river stays in its present channel."

The men have been working every possible hour to get the caisson down to bedrock—96 feet—before cold weather.

"Then we'll have it made," says Sterling Allen of Parkersburg, Va., job superintendent. "We can put a cover over the caisson and work right on, despite the weather."

The photo above shows a part of the crew lowering the caisson Saturday afternoon. It was 53 feet down then.

"Yes, we're going to work Sunday," Allen asserted. "And visitors won't bother us. The people of Jacksonville have a valuable property in this well, and if they want to come out to see it, fine."

An interested spectator at the wells is Emil Latere, 28-year-old Belgium engineer. He's here to study the Ranney well system and will go to the Belgium Congo in Africa next February to build similar wells for irrigation projects.

The Jacksonville well is located along the Illinois river a quarter mile north of Naples.

Laying of the pipeline was delayed three days last week due to a labor dispute. Work is scheduled to begin again Monday.

He encouraged all county residents who have not sent their contribution in yet, to mail it directly to the Community Chest office in the Gibson Building.

State Acquires Logs From New Salem Cabin

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Logs from one of the cabins that stood at New Salem when Abraham Lincoln resided there from 1831 to 1837 have been acquired by the State of Illinois.

Governor William G. Stratton has approved plans of the state Department of Conservation to use the logs as a nucleus for restoration of the John Camron cabin in New Salem State Park.

Camron was one of the founders of the village of New Salem in 1828. Located on a hill above the Sangamon river, the village had a brief existence. It was abandoned when Petersburg was selected to be county seat of Menard county in 1839.

In 1932 the state began restoration of the village of New Salem as closely as possible as it was originally. The only original building in the park is the Onstot cooper shop. Thirteen cabins, ten shops and a school where church services were held have been reproduced in the park.

Only the John Camron and Philemon Morris cabins remain to be reproduced. The logs recently acquired from a building contractor for $140 will be used in reproducing the former. The Morris cabin will be reproduced later.

Restoration work on the Camron cabin will be under supervision of Director Glen D. Palmer of the conservation department, and Robert G. Miller, state superintendent of parks and memorials.

The original cabin logs acquired by the state were discovered when an old house in Petersburg was being dismantled to make way for a commercial structure. The logs had been covered with weather boarding.

While the state division of parks has been unable to ascertain which of the original cabins at New Salem the logs came from, Miller has obtained an affidavit signed in November 1928 by a Martha Jane Richards, Petersburg, stating:

"From statements made by my father to me, . . . Abraham Lincoln often came to my father's store between the years 1855 and 1860 and talked to him about the log cabin that then stood in Petersburg after being moved there from New Salem."

Former Resident Killed In Wreck At Springfield

Francis M. Walker, 42, who lost his life Friday evening in an automobile collision on U. S. Route 36 east of Springfield, was formerly a resident of Jacksonville.

Walker, who resided at 1227 South East street while a resident of this city, was employed as a timekeeper by Nesco, and later was employed by the Producers Dairy. His wife was employed at the Jacksonville State hospital.

The family moved to Springfield in 1942 when he was employed by the Sangamon Ordnance plant at Illinois. The family home is at 517 West Ash street. Since 1942 Walker had been an industrial engineer for the Borg-Warner Corp., with exception of a year spent at Benton Harbor, Mich.

Mr. Walker, a native of Patoka, Ill., is survived by his wife, a daughter, three brothers and five sisters.

He was a member of the First Methodist church at Springfield, and Harmony Lodge No. 3, A.F. & A.M. of Jacksonville.

Walker was killed in a wreck which also claimed the life of Robert C. Schnepf, 42, and the injury of four other men. Both Walker and Schnepf were riding in the rear seat of a car driven by Walter Littrell of Springfield.

Littrell, suffering from shock, told Coroner W. C. Telford of Sangamon county that he and three companions were returning to Springfield from Decatur, where they are employed. The other car was carrying several members of the Air Force.

4-H Achievement Day Program Here Nov. 13

Jacksonville merchants again will compliment the 4-H boys and girls in Morgan county by providing a free show, prizes and merchandise awards at the annual 4-H Achievement Day program, which will be held at the Times theatre Saturday, beginning at 8:45 a.m.

Following the movie, "Challenge of the Wild," the presentation of awards earned by exceptional club work will be made by the extension workers of Morgan county, the club leaders and the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson last week added his personal word of congratulation to the nation's two million 4-H boys and girls in advance of National 4-H Achievement Day on Saturday, Nov. 13.

In a special message to 4-H Club members, Benson said:

"Congratulations upon the completion of another successful year of club work. The eyes of the nation will be upon you as you join more than two million fellow club workers in observing National 4-H Achievement Day, Nov. 13. We in the Department of Agriculture join your parents, leaders, and friends in commending you for carrying out so well your principle of 'Learning through doing' in all your activities. You have learned the importance of responsibility and the rewards of hard work through your many projects in agriculture, homemaking, and other subjects.

"Although 4-H Club work is big, it is successful only to the extent that each individual member learns to live and to work with others in a spirit of cooperation. That's why I am particularly glad you have chosen the theme of Working Together for World Understanding. Good citizenship starts at home, but its influence extends throughout the world.

"Farming and homemaking are professions of which you can justly be proud. They have contributed much to the strength of our nation. Yet we cannot afford to be content with past achievements. We must look for new ways of reducing costs, of improving quality, of expanding markets for the products of each individual farm. This you have a share in because 4-H is a family affair. And this you can hasten by applying scientific methods to the production and marketing of your projects. You have set a notable record in the past. We are looking to you even more, as future leaders, in applying research results to the problems of everyday farming and homemaking.

"For your diligence and accomplishments I salute you, your parents, your leaders, your extension agents, and the many others who have given 4-H Club work international esteem.

"May God grant you continued success in all your endeavors. And may you always accept the responsibility of helping others enjoy the heritage that is yours."

Urges Farmers To Aid Census Enumerators

URBANA — All Illinois farmers are urged to fill out the advance farm census questionnaire as soon as they receive it in mail and before the census enumerator arrives.

W. G. Kammlade, associate director of the Illinois Agricultural Extension Service, said the Extension Service had been asked by the Bureau of the Census to request the cooperation of all farmers in the state to help complete the 1954 Census of Agriculture.

In some states where the census taking already is in progress, some farmers have seriously delayed the schedule of work because they did not complete the advance questionnaire before the census taker arrived, Kammlade said.

Many Illinois farmers already have received their copy of the questionnaire in the mail and all others will get them within the next few days. Enumerators started their task of collecting the questionnaires in nearly all farm communities in the state last week.

Kammlade emphasizes that the nation's entire agricultural statistics program is based on the farm census. The government uses the information to develop and administer farm programs, crop and livestock reporting services, state and local agencies and farm organizations all use the data.

Assurance is given to each farmer that the information he puts down on the questionnaire is confidential and will be used only in statistical totals for each county. Individual farm operations are never revealed and the data cannot be used for taxation, regulation or investigation. Census enumerators are sworn into office and the law provides stiff penalties for violations of the confidentiality code.

MYSTERY IN JAIL

HARDIN, Ill. — The Calhoun county court house is 106 years old and still stands square and true, but the 104-year-old jail is beginning to show signs of disintegration. The jail was built in 1850 from native limestone and is a model of expert workmanship. The huge blocks of stone were so carefully fitted that builders say they should have stood for hundreds of years. In the last 60 days small cracks in the upper floor have widened alarmingly. The cause is a mystery. One theory is that years of drought have caused the soil to contract and allow the building to settle.

Universities Cooperate In New Field

URBANA—A Southern Illinois Cooperative Agronomy Research Center is being established at Carbondale, according to a joint announcement Friday by Dr. W. E. Kepper, acting director of the Southern Illinois University Division of Rural Studies and Dr. M. B. Russell, head of the Department of Agronomy at the University of Illinois.

The Agronomy Research Center, which will be located one and one-half miles southwest of Carbondale on the STU Experimental Farm, will be operated jointly by STU and the University of Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station. Dr. E. F. Sullivan, STU agronomist, has been named superintendent of the new station.

For Southern Counties
The station will be devoted to soils and crops research and demonstrations. Studies will be conducted to develop acceptable varieties of field and forage crops, with emphasis on their adaptability to southern Illinois. Fundamental problems related to soil management and crop culture will be studied. Demonstrations for observation by students and farmers will be developed.

50-50 Deal
Under the agreement signed by representatives of the two institutions, each will pay half of the superintendent's salary and will share operating costs. STU will furnish a minimum of 40 acres of suitable land selected for the station. This tract was recently acquired by STU. Southern will also erect a 200, 80-ton field service building at the station for storage purposes and other uses.

The University of Illinois will equip the station completely with necessary farm and power machinery and will furnish laboratory equipment for carrying on research.

The agronomy station is the culmination of more than nine months of discussion and study by the two institutions. It is the second major cooperative research center operated jointly by the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. The two joined efforts in 1951 to activate at STU the Illinois Horticultural Experiment Station, where fruit research and demonstration work now is entering the fourth year.

Soil Bank Idea Approved By Many Illinois Farmers

CHICAGO — Increased emphasis on the soil bank idea for diversified acres under the ASC program is the national issue foremost in the thinking of Illinois farmers.

That statement was made last week by Otto Steffey, vice president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, in summing up the first phase of the IAA's 1954 policy development program. Farmer opinion on local, state and national issues was gathered last week at a series of five area report meetings, including one in Jacksonville. The reports followed a month of intensive discussion in township and community gatherings.

These advisory reports will guide the writing of resolutions to be submitted to the voting delegates at the state-wide Farm Bureau organization's annual meeting Nov. 15-18 in Chicago.

Steffey, a Henderson county farmer, who is also chairman of the IAA tentative resolutions committee, said, "There's a strong feeling among farmers that historic land use is not a fair approach in setting acreage allotments."

He added that "There is no question that flexible price supports as opposed to fixed supports are becoming better understood by farm people and are gaining approval."

Teacher tenure and toll roads were on the minds of many farm people, according to Steffey.

He said most farmers are willing to accept toll roads, but want assurance that they will be adequately compensated for land acquisitions. Farmers near proposed toll highways also want to make sure enough underpasses of large enough size will be built to allow them to carry on their farming operations.

Steffey reported participation in the policy development was "excellent." He said "It is obvious that farmers are giving a great deal of thought to working out solutions for the many problems they face."

THE FARM VOTE

Republican fears that the farm vote might go heavily against them because of declining farm commodity prices and because of Secretary Benson's flexible price support program proved largely unfounded after the ballots were tallied last Tuesday. For the G.O.P., this constituted one of the few bright spots on the national political scene, for in urban areas where the labor vote counted the heaviest, the Democrats won handily.

In Iowa a Republican, Thomas E. Martin, a supporter of the Eisenhower farm program, was elected by a sizeable margin over the veteran Democratic Senator Guy Gillette, who made a campaign issue of his belief in high, rigid price supports.

In Kansas and Nebraska, other important farm states, Republican candidates for the Senate likewise had little difficulty in defeating their opponents.

In Illinois, while incumbent Senator Paul H. Douglas won over Joseph T. Meek, the G.O.P. candidate, it was not the farm vote which did it. In the main farming areas of the state the vote was divided about as usual between the two parties. Here in Morgan County, which we regard as a typical cross-section of the heart of agricultural America, no unusual trend in the voting developed.

The returns from farm precincts indicate that farmers generally accept a realistic price support program and that they do not intend to tie their future welfare to a strict program of government regimentation. The returns also indicate that most of the farmers of the country have confidence in their own Farm Bureau leaders, such as Charles Shuman of the I.A.A., and in Secretary Benson and those who have had a hand in formulating the administration's farm program.

The farmers clearly demonstrated that they could think beyond the immediate condition of their pocket-books, rejecting the specious arguments of those who wooed them by espousing unsound high price supports.

MANNING THE SMUDGE POTS

The phrase, "where there's smoke there must be fire," is one of those neat, rounded little thoughts that sound very apt and useful. But too often today it serves as a limp excuse for avoiding responsible judgment on a critical problem.

In the welter of modern-day affairs, the phrase pops up continuously. Politicians use it and voters use it. Maybe this shouldn't surprise, since there's so much smoke around nowadays. It billows about the heads of many men, private citizens and public figures alike.

The meaning of the words is simple, of course. If there are a lot of charges against an individual, if there is a good deal of circumstantial evidence of wrongdoing, then the judgment follows almost automatically: "The charges must be true."

The notion implicit in the celebrated phrase is that men do not make charges unless they have real basis for them, that they do not manufacture smoke.

But the facts of our public life do not support this notion. The fabricated charge has always been a device in American politics, as in most other. And in this current time of tension, with communism threatening on many sides, the air in the United States is steadily filled with the vapors of personal attack—generated by men who consciously play upon our fears.

Some of the men who man the smudge pots are genuine specialists at it. They know the mood and temper of the country. They know that if they keep sending up smoke clouds, sooner or later they'll convince some citizens there's a fire in somebody's back yard.

A moment's real thought about the matter will disclose the danger in allowing oneself to be thus misled. If we Americans should insist on agreeing that "where there's smoke there must be fire," then anyone with a smoke machine and a lot of energy can smudge up any man, any organization, any administration.

Actually, the phrase goes against the grain of the best American traditions of fair play, which do not permit an assumption of a man's guilt on the basis of unproved charges, no matter how numerous.

We ought to hear much less of the phrase than we do. What we really need is a good national antismoke ordinance, to clear the air. Then we could tell a real fire from the smokescreens churned up by the men at the pots.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Around the world with Abbott and Costello.

That's the nature of a film project being dreamed up by Lou Costello. The zany comics have but one more film to do under their contract to Universal-International after their current "Abbott and Costello in the Mummy."

"Then I want to take a skeleton crew and shoot features in various capitals of the world," says Lou, the once fat member of the team, who has slimmed down since his recent illness. "I already have a script for our first film, which will be made in Paris. And I'm working on another one to be made in London."

"The Paris story has me and Bud as a couple of bums trying to get off the boat and into France. The only way we can do it is to have me pose as the new director of the French Ballet. Well, you can imagine the situations we can get into."

"The London story concerns the stealing of the crown jewels from Westminster Abbey. And I've got other stories in mind for other foreign cities."

After their next picture for U-I, A&C will be free of all commitments for the first time in 15 years. They will be able to call their own shots and travel appears high on their preferences. Lou said he would go to Europe after "The Mummy" to scout the filming situation.

He doesn't plan to make any more TV films at present. He now has 52 in circulation, and a big soup company bought up the first 26 for Saturday morning showings all over the country. Some of these films have already been shown four or five times, Lou said. So there is apparently no saturation.

Speaker Sam—Freshman Senator—VP's Return—Ike's Men—Effective Backing—Grain Storage

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Next Speaker of the House of Representatives Sam Rayburn (D. Tex.) becomes the most important man in Washington after President Eisenhower himself as a result of the Democratic victory there.

Speaker Rayburn will sit in on White House conferences. He will be sought after by the White House staff, cabinet members, heads of all government agencies and the Republican congressional leaders. Every GOP big shot will want to woo Speaker Sam to win his support for Eisenhower administration programs.

In the event of the death of both the President and vice president, Mr. Rayburn would be President.

KENTUCKY'S Senator-Elect Albert B. Barkley apparently has no ambitions to resume his old job as Democratic leader in the upper House of Congress. He might be a natural as Democratic candidate for president pro tempore of the Senate. This is more of an honorary job. But here the former VeeP's loss of seniority may cut him down.

"Senator Barkley will start as a freshman senator again at the bottom of the list," says Emory I. Frazer, chief clerk of the Senate. Barkley loses his seniority because he has not been a senator since 1948. When he was elected vice president, Chief Clerk Frazer notes that the Democratic Policy Committee could put Senator Barkley ahead of other senators. But this never has happened before.

SENATOR BARKLEY is not the only former vice president to re-second one from Kentucky. John C. Breckinridge was elected to the Senate from Kentucky in 1860 after serving as vice president under President James Buchanan, 1857-61.

The others were John C. Calhoun of South Carolina, who was V.P. to Andrew Jackson; Hannibal Hamlin of Maine, who was V.P. during Abraham Lincoln's first term; and Andrew Johnson of North Carolina, who was V.P. during Lincoln's second term and who became President after Lincoln's assassination.

THE GRAIN - STORAGE program, one of the big issues of the 1948 election was just as present in 1954 as it was six years ago, with a reverse twist, but nobody paid any attention.

In the Republican-controlled 80th Congress of 1947-48, the GOP had refused appropriations for a big government program to buy storage space for surplus grain bought under the price-support program. Much valuable grain was lost.

PRESIDENTIAL coastal riding and personal presidential endorsement apparently didn't cut much ice in this year's election. The candidates for alien President Eisenhower made a strong personal appeal, and in whose states he campaigned during the closing days of the election, were these:

Sen. Irving M. Laves of New York, candidate for governor.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky.

Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan.

Ex-Congressman Clifford Case, candidate for senator in New Jersey.

Congressman George Bender of Ohio, candidate for senator.

Congressman Herbert Warburton of Delaware, candidate for senator.

Only Bender and Case squeaked through, and in both cases a recount will probably determine the winner.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE for an Effective Congress, the non-partisan organization which came in for some criticism during the campaign, was of more help to the Senate Democrats it endorsed than it was to the Republicans it tried to help.

Democrats Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, Paul Douglas of Illinois, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Matthew Neely of West Virginia and Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming came through with clean victories. Democrat Richard C. Neuberger of Oregon and Republican Clifford Case of New Jersey won in extremely close races. Republicans John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Democrat Guy M. Gillette of Iowa were defeated by sizeable majorities.

You Paint a Word Picture Of Mate by Your Remarks

Did you ever stop to think that every time you make a remark about your husband you are describing him to someone else? The day you told the bridge club all about how Jim got the worst end of a business deal, that you were doubtful all along you were describing your husband as not as smart as you are.

The day you got a laugh by giggling about the perfectly awful lamp Jim bought you for your birthday which you quickly exchanged you were describing your husband as a man of little taste.

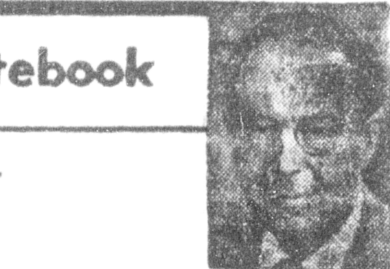

The day you gossiped about the prospect of having to put up with a visit from Jim's parents you were describing Jim as coming from a family even his wife couldn't admire and respect.

YOUR WORDS CARRY WEIGHT
The day you bragged about how you put your foot down and vetoed a decision Jim had made you were saying that Jim wasn't man enough to be the head of his own family.

The day you talked about how Jim had gone out and bought himself an expensive gun and so you guessed you had to put off getting the dayvenport slip covered—you were creating a picture of Jim as a selfish, self-centered man.

The day you mentioned how grumpy and worried Jim had been lately you were making him seem unsure and afraid.

Because you know Jim so well, it probably never occurred to you that your remarks would carry so much weight. But they do because you are Jim's wife and supposed to know him better than anybody else in the world. And if what you choose to tell about your husband puts him in a poor light then that's how your friends and acquaintances are going to see him.

President Harry S. Truman and his Secretary of Agriculture, Charles F. Brannan, made the most of this issue by telling the farmers how they had been created by the Republicans. This was considered a major factor in the Democrats winning the farm vote.

In the last 18 months, however, the Republican administration has gone right out and bought nearly 500 million bushels more of grain storage capacity. It has bought grain bins of 300 million bushels capacity. It has provided for over 150 million bushels of guaranteed commercial grain storage capacity. And farm storage space has been increased by 50 million bushels.

Only Bender and Case squeaked through, and in both cases a recount will probably determine the winner.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky.

Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan.

Ex-Congressman Clifford Case, candidate for senator in New Jersey.

Congressman George Bender of Ohio, candidate for senator.

Congressman Herbert Warburton of Delaware, candidate for senator.

Only Bender and Case squeaked through, and in both cases a recount will probably determine the winner.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE for an Effective Congress, the non-partisan organization which came in for some criticism during the campaign, was of more help to the Senate Democrats it endorsed than it was to the Republicans it tried to help.

Democrats Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, Paul Douglas of Illinois, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Matthew Neely of West Virginia and Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming came through with clean victories. Democrat Richard C. Neuberger of Oregon and Republican Clifford Case of New Jersey won in extremely close races. Republicans John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Democrat Guy M. Gillette of Iowa were defeated by sizeable majorities.

Brazil Nut Stuffing Enriches Your Thanksgiving Turkey

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor
Our New York friend, Martha Tupper, has convinced us Brazil nut stuffing is just what our Thanksgiving turkey needs. So we shall follow her tested recipe.

Brazil Nut Stuffing
(Yield: stuffing for 10 to 12-pound turkey)

Eight cups lightly packed bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 2 cups chopped Brazil nuts, 1 cup butter or margarine, 2 small onions, finely chopped, 1 cup diced celery, 1 cup boiling water or stock.

Combine in large mixing bowl bread crumbs, poultry seasoning, salt, parsley and Brazil nuts. Melt butter in saucepan; add onion and celery and cook until tender, but not brown. Add to Brazil nut-bread mixture with water, toss with fork until well mixed. Stuff into bird lightly.

Note: Recipe may be cut in half for a 5-pound chicken. For a roasted Brazil nut flavor, spread chopped Brazil nuts in a shallow baking pan; toast in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes.

What about leftover turkey next day? Well, here's a recipe de luxe we enjoyed at the Public House, Sturbridge, Mass. It's one of our favorite American inn, and the food is New England with an international outlook.

Creamed Turkey and Oysters
Three tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup light cream, 1 pound cooked turkey, sliced into strips, 1 pint oysters, 1 cup water, salt and pepper.

Poach the oysters lightly in water with salt and pepper. Drain and set aside.

Melt the butter over medium heat and add flour gradually. Cook two or three minutes stirring constantly. Pour on the oyster liquid and cream and continue stirring, cooking until the sauce is smooth. This is the time to check the seasoning and the consistency of the sauce. Just before serving, add poached oysters.

Serve piping hot with slices of toast or in patty shells. Garnish with watercress.

THANKSGIVING DINNER:
Celery, ripe and green olives, raw cucumber sticks, roast turkey, Brazil nut dressing, giblet gravy, stuffed baked potatoes, Brussels sprouts, braised celery, assorted rolls, butter or margarine, chopped raw cranberry, orange and grapefruit section salad, pumpkin chiffon pie, cheese, nuts, candied ginger, fruit bowl, cider, coffee, tea, milk.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (P)—Fatherhood to a successful race horse often beats an old age pension.

Take Native Dancer, for example. The big gray stallion, fourth biggest money winner in American turf history, racked up $785,240 in 22 starts and lost only one race—the Kentucky Derby, by a nose.

Now retired, he may even have more money through planned parenthood in his leisure years than he did during his brief, fabulous track career.

"It's quite possible, if he lives long enough," said his owner, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. The dancer, whose stud fee is $5,000 already has a full calendar for his first year as a sire. He has been booked for 40 engagements.

Whether he continues to earn $200,000 a year as a career father depends on whether he transmits to his offspring his own dazzling qualities—speed, heart and strength.

Only time can determine that. But the Dancer's own tremendous record has given him a head start in his new vocation. In developing thoroughbreds, owners generally follow the maxim, "You breed the best to the best and hope for the best."

Native Dancer's $5,000 stud fee is high, but there have been higher. There are perhaps 20 American stallions that get a $2,000 to $3,000 stud fee. In some cases the fee is paid only if the breeding results in a live foal.

The influence of a stallion's age on the quality of his offspring is highly debatable.

Native Dancer's famous grandfather, Discovery, was put to stud at the age of 6. He will be 24 next spring, and is still active, although the number of his engagements has been cut gradually from 40 a year down to 12.

"But he's got more good horses the last five years than he did the first five years," remarked Vanderbilt.

Like racing itself, sire is an unpredictable industry, and every colt is an expensive gamble.

But Vanderbilt, at 42 one of the kingpins of racing, no longer has to dip into his 20 million dollar inheritance to support his expensive stable. It has run to 80 or more horses. Now he trims it to 40 or 45 in training season.

"In the last four or five years it certainly has been paying for

Watershed Project Near Barry To Benefit Farm Land

PITTSFIELD—The government sponsored Hadley Watershed project, north of Barry, is getting well under way. The preliminary surveys and other work necessary to carry out the project is practically completed, with a contract to be let in the next few days for actual construction work.

The project is sponsored by the federal government, with land owners in the area cooperating. It is designed to prevent erosion, to build up the farming land and increase its productivity at the upper end of the creek and help in protecting bottom lands in Pike county from disastrous floods. Actual construction on the watershed will begin very soon. The first work to be done will be the construction of four earth filled drop-in spillways along Hadley Creek about two miles north of Barry. It is planned to have farm ponds back of two of the fills, while the other two will be of dry dam construction. The spillways will be constructed of concrete.

The Jones Construction Company of Hillview made the low bid of $15,820 for the work. The contractor will be allowed one hundred days to complete the job, which it is believed will be of unmeasurable benefit to the farming lands in the area.

Neighbors Harvest Crops
A group of good neighbors harvested the corn crops for Mrs. Dan Rose and Mrs. Ray Foster this week. Both Mr. Rose and Mr. Foster have recently died, and the harvesting of the crops for their widows was a gesture of good will on the part of their friends. Four corn pickers, elevators and wagons with a group of eighteen men had both crops harvested by mid-afternoon. Wives of the participating men, and other friends, furnished their dinner. Warren Brown furnished the gas for the tractor.

Final Count
The final, official count of ballots cast in Tuesday's election, gave Virgil Griffith, republican, present deputy sheriff and candidate for sheriff, 4,536 votes and his Democratic opponent Wayne Lightle 4,227 votes. Griffith is the lone republican to be elected on the county ticket.

Cancer Dressings
Ladies of the local Moose Lodge are working on a cancer dressings project which is undertaken in cooperation with the American Cancer Society. Mrs. George Watkins is chairman of the dressings project. Dressings will be furnished free of charge to any cancer patient receiving care in their home, with the approval of the patient's physician. Three patients are reported in this locality who are receiving treatment in their homes. Mrs. Earl McKenna is senior regent of the lodge. She reports that the membership is greatly interested in the work of making and distributing the dressings.

Education Week
All schools of the Pittsfield Community District 10 will participate with other schools of the nation in observing American Education Week, during the whole of next week Nov. 7-13.

During the special observance the Board of Education, the administrative officers, the teachers and students of the district invite all citizens, patrons and parents to visit the children's class rooms. Included in the district are the schools in Pittsfield, Milton, Nebo, Pearl, Rockport, Baylis, New Salem, Detroit, Toll Gate, Time, Summer Hill, Bedford, Old Pearl, Martinsburg, Rose Hill, Independence and New Hartford.

INFLUENTIAL FRIENDS
DETROIT (AP)—Patrolman Walter S. Suchara found out recently some of his friends wield a lot of influence at City Hall. Suchara had been transferred to the midnight shift, but now he's back directing traffic at a school crossing during the afternoons.

For this, Suchara can thank a letter written by sixth-grader Theresa Rivera to Police Commissioner Edward S. Piggins. The letter read: "Hello Commissioner. I would would like to ask a favor. Would you please put patrolman Suchara back on the corner at the school? My friends and I are nuts about him. He is a very nice officer and very careful and nice to us kids."

Bureau Sponsors Music And Drama Festival In Cass

VIRGINIA — The Cass county Home Bureau executive board at the October meeting in Virginia voted to sponsor a Music and Drama Festival again this year and appointed Mrs. Floyd M. Leonhard chairman of a committee to promote it.

Participation in the Festival is open to all men and women in Cass county who enjoy singing or playing musical instruments together and acting in plays. Home Bureau is simply the organization sponsoring the Festival and participation is open to all Cass county people.

All musical entries must have at least three people participating in each one. There is no limit to the number above three in each group. Musical numbers may be vocal, instrumental, or a combination of the two. Each entry must sing or play two numbers.

The drama entries must be a one-act play, not less than three characters and more if needed. The play may be any type, but should be about 30 minutes in length. Copies of one-act plays suitable for use may be secured from the Home Bureau office in Virginia.

The deadline for county entries will be announced later. The Festival will be held the latter part of December or first week in January. It must be held prior to January 7. Those who enter will be consulted regarding the date for the county show.

A district Festival will be held sometime during the week of January 14, probably in Jacksonville. In order to participate in the district Festival Cass county must have at least two one-act plays entered in the county Festival, as well as musical numbers.

The climax of the Festival will be the Farm and Home Festival, February 2, at the University of Illinois during Farm and Home week.

Professional groups and school groups may not enter, but children of school age may enter if not sponsored by a school group. Consult Mrs. Floyd Leonhard or the Home Bureau office in Virginia, for further information.

TAKE 1000 PUNISHING RUNS ON BOULDER-FILLED TEST ROAD!

NOT A CORD BROKEN!

That's right! Test drivers made more than 1000 torture runs over a road of jagged rocks—pounding over hundreds of punishing sharp edges on the same set of 1954 All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushions.

When these tires were removed and examined, not a broken cord was found—proof positive that Goodyear's exclusive 3-T Triple-Tempered All-Nylon Cord construction makes this new tire so strong—so durable that impact blowouts are practically unheard of. And for greater economy the new wider, flatter tread gives you up to 1.3 more mileage.

The anti-vibration tread design practically eliminates squealing on turns, too. 1500 inches of non-skid edges, 880 deep-cut safety slots give you 15% safer traction.

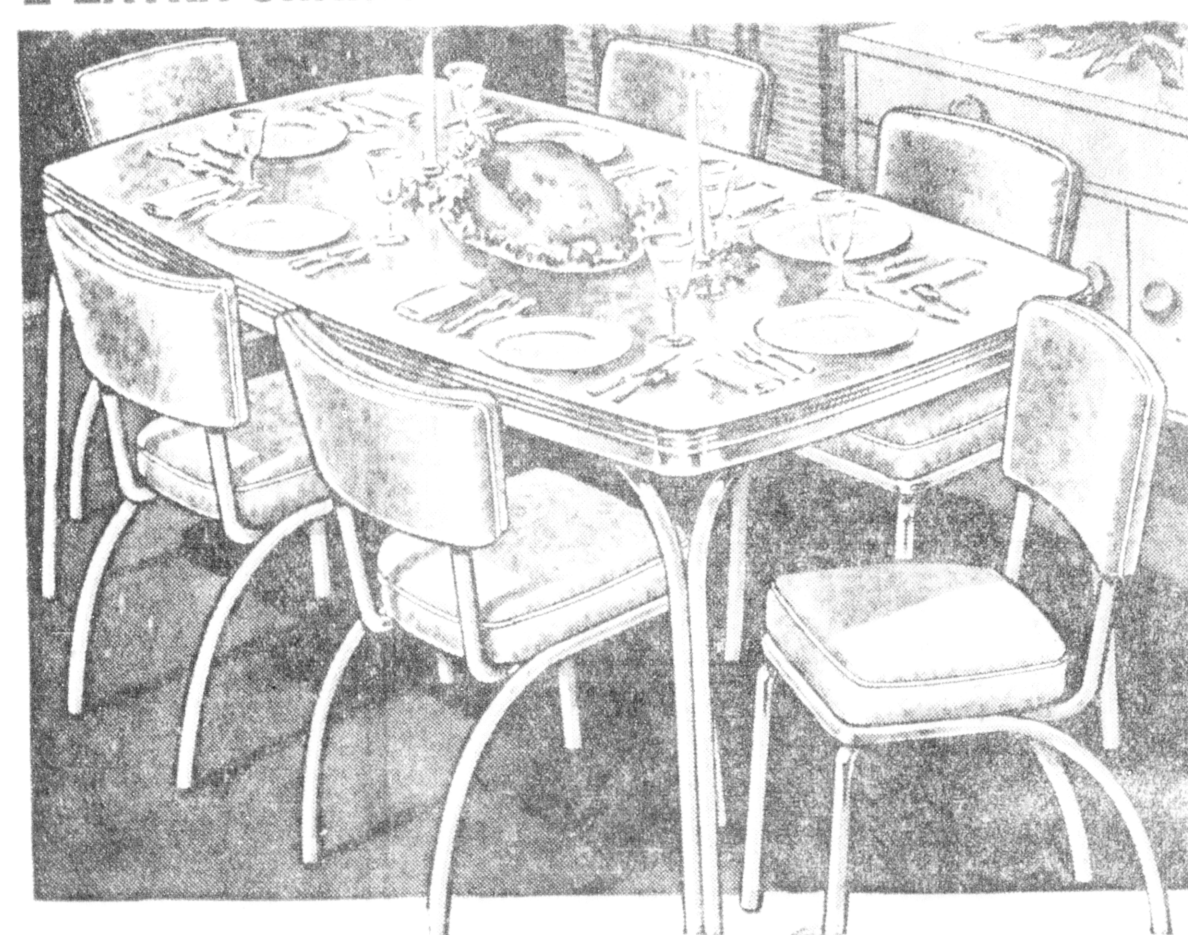

Stop in—trade now for far safer—far stronger 1954 All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushions by Goodyear. Your old tires will be the down payment.

A Tribute To Veterans of Foreign Wars

In the Pacific at Iwo Jima, Guadalcanal, Guam, Bataan . . . over the burning desert of Africa outfoxing Rommel, the German fox . . . in and over Europe in valiant armies, in heroic planes, in victorious subs, in giant battlewagons . . . there were the men who fought and won . . . the men who today comprise our Veterans of Foreign Wars. These lads were on the firing lines. They carried the conflict to the enemy's shores and cities. They kept the flames from spreading to our homeland . . . and for their deeds and daring we salute them as among the greatest of great Americans!

Visitor To French Nudist Swimming Pool Finds It Dull

PARIS (AP)—If you're looking for Paris in the raw, you'll find it at the nudist swimming pools.

If it's sun you're after, however, you'll be disappointed. After the first few minutes the proceedings seem about as spine-tingling as a church supper.

I went down and tried one of the three Paris swimming pools that cater to nudists—or naturists, as they prefer to be called in France. It was a chilly evening and I spent the best part of two hours sitting on a damp towel, shivering and paging through an American magazine someone had discarded, waiting for more business to show up.

There was nothing I'd rather have seen than a nice woolly bathrobe.

The Piscine de l'Etoile, about 200 yards from the Arch of Triumph, is rented to nudist clubs three nights a week. To get in you should have a card issued by the French Federation of Naturists, but that isn't expected of a foreigner. Admission: 100 francs (about 30 cents).

Of course, I had to take off my own clothes too.

Except for the lack of bathing suits, the Piscine de l'Etoile looked pretty much like any other indoor

The bank decided the $25 prizes in the adult and children divisions would be too small split among the winners so it added additional $25 awards. A drawing was held with the winner getting $25 in each division and the losers splitting the other $25.

Picture Of Sterling Cole, Chairman Of AEC, One Of Few Knowing Awful Secret Of H-Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP)—For 18 years W. Sterling Cole was a hard-working Republican congressman from Bath, N.Y., struggling with the problems of his time and trying to keep his constituents happy. Then came the hydrogen bomb. Now Cole sometimes has trouble sleeping.

For in the spring of 1953 "Stub" Cole, once named by a Washington society columnist as the most handsome man in the House, became chairman of the Joint House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee. His wife says he no longer knows how to relax.

Carrying constantly with him the awful, intimate secrets of the hydrogen and atomic bombs, Cole was opposed to development of the H-bomb at the start. But now he's not one of those who think it will be outlawed in the next war.

"Hell," he says, "if we're never going to use them, then why are we building them at a cost of billions and billions?"

Almost every day Cole enters one of the most heavily guarded areas in Washington, Suite F-38 just off the main corridor of the Capitol. There he carries out his committee work. He is one of the few men in Washington presumed to know how many hydrogen and atomic weapons this country has stockpiled.

The mainstream of history caught up with this collector of early American antiques this year. On Feb. 17 he made a speech that stunned the free world. He said for the first time the titanic powers of the superbomb. He said it would have been a sin to keep silent.

The speech sent a worried, frowning Winston Churchill, prime minister of Great Britain, off on a hurried trip to the United States. In chancelleries around the globe there were rapid new assessments of foreign policies, for the world knew that Russia possessed the superbomb too.

Will the bomb be used in the next war? "We have to proceed on the theory that they are going to be used. If we said we weren't it would encourage the damn Soviets to become more crude and demanding, so we must proceed on the assumption that of course they are to be used," says Cole.

As for releasing information to friendly nations, Cole observes that the struggle today is for the allegiance of men to an idea to a way of life.

"The worst thing that could happen," he says, "would be for the Russians to develop the atom for peaceful purposes and make it available to backward countries. We must do it first. It will demonstrate the sincerity of our foreign policy and disprove the charges of 'imperialistic aggrandizement'."

Cole was a chief author of the 1954 Atomic Energy Act permitting 12 billion dollars worth of secrets to be revealed in a limited way to friendly nations and private enterprise for peaceful purposes.

There was scant quarrel with the revelation of atomic secrets to friendly powers, but the grant of the secrets to private enterprise for private profit — secrets obtained at public expense — was assailed as a "giveaway" that would create new monopolies.

Cole fought the Senate and the administration to a standoff in this summer's debate on the atomic bill.

The Senate bill, accepted by the White House, proposed that any patents developed privately be made available on a lease basis to other firms for 10 years. The House bill provided that what private industry developed as industrial processes should be theirs exclusively from the start. Cole backed this bill.

The issue was finally compromised at five years, but Cole has said publicly he will reopen it in January. He gave in because his stand endangered passage of the measure during the last session.

Since the atom first was developed, several large firms have been working for the government under dollar-a-year contracts. They know more about the use of fissionable material, of course, than those without contracts.

The charge has been made that to permit them to have exclusive use of the information they obtained at government expense would give them a head start in private development and create monopolies.

One of the firms which has worked on the atomic program is Westinghouse Electric Corp. Westinghouse has two large plants in Cole's district, but a political reporter in Elmira, a city in the district, says: "As far as I know there never has been any tieup between Cole and Westinghouse. I might not know about it if there was, but I think Cole simply believes what he believes as a matter of principle."

Cole himself says: "The most promising early use of the atom for peace is to produce electricity. There was wagonloads of ways to produce electricity from the atom — the bill invites private capital to come in and speculate."

Cole has come in for criticism from Democratic National Chairman Stephen Mitchell on the so-called Dixon-Yates proposal, which would provide for construction of a 107-million-dollar steam plant to generate electricity at West Memphis, Ark. Power from the plant would be carried on lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority to replace power which will be used for the AEC's installation at Paducah, Ky.

Mitchell said he wants Cole's neighbors in his home district "to know how he is serving a policy of favoritism in this deal that is so embarrassing to Republicans."

Cole, a witness to four A-bomb explosions, lives rather quietly in a red brick Colonial house in Washington.

There is little pretense about the house, Cole or his wife Mrs. Cole is slender, pretty, and the mother of three sons.

The house is not large, but it is laden with "things" Cole is an insatiable collector of antiques and trinkets.

Some of the overflow of his mania for collections is in his office — a desk and chair from the House chamber of the 1850s, a herd of miniature elephants, ship models and a nickel-plated horseshoe.

Cole has had ample opportunity to collect. He has traveled all over the world on congressional business — to Europe, Africa, Asia and places in between.

While he has been unable to find much relaxation lately, he comes close to it when he visits his 511-acre dairy farm just outside Bath, with its old but comfortable red brick house. Mrs. Cole spends most of her summers there, and Cole visits on weekend.

He likes to think of himself as a farmer, which makes his brother, Robert, snort: "Stub is interested in agriculture, but as a farmer he makes a damn fine congressman."

Cole was born in Painted Post, N.Y., April 18, 1904, the son of a high school principal. He recalled there as a hard-working boy.

After leaving high school, he attended Colgate University, of which he is now a trustee. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

After graduation he taught for a while, then entered the brokerage business at a most unfortunate moment — just before the 1929 stock market crash. He also married in 1929.

In time he obtained a law degree from Albany Law School and entered legal practice in 1930 with his brother Robert, who says, "There is no doubt in my mind that 'Stub' would have had a brilliant legal career. He handled some rather good-sized cases and his preparation was brilliant."

When Cole set out for Congress he was 30, the youngest representative ever sent to Washington by New York. One long-time resident of Bath said, "It was like sending a Boy Scout off on a trip. He looked like one, and he acted like one."

Cole is up for re-election this year and is expected to win. Ben Balcomb, chairman of the Steuben County Republican Committee, says Cole has no organized opposition within the party, and "I guess he can be congressman as long as he wants to." The district is almost solidly Republican.

When former President Truman made the decision to go ahead with the H-bomb, Cole commented, "For my part I do not approve the decision both because it is a usurpation of congressional authority and because the decision itself is contrary to recommendation of our country's most competent authorities. This epochal decision goes beyond the security of the United States. The security of mankind is at stake."

Cole said recently, "Time demonstrated the fallacy of my judgment."

Carrollton Hopes For Water Assist From Test Wells

CARROLLTON — Edwin Smith, the vice president of Lane Western of St. Louis gave a preliminary report at the meeting of the local City Council Tuesday evening concerning the 4 test wells which were recently dug in the vicinity of the City Springs.

If the wells are thought to contain water of sufficient quantity to greatly augment the present city water supply, a well will be dug and the water piped into the present city water system at the city springs and then piped into the storage tanks in the city.

Olin Stread, superintendent of Carrollton Community School Unit No. 1, and Attorney Jack McDonald, president of the school board of the Unit, met with the council Tuesday evening to discuss plans for the installing of a water and sewer system at the site of the new Carrollton Community Unit High School for which building the contract will be let in the near future.

Madness In The Spring

By Elmore Bennett

THE STORY: Greg Server, a young man who wants to do something on his own, leaves the relative security of working for his stepfather to become a chauffeur for a wealthy invalid. Wade Langstaff, who is also tired of staying in one place, traveling in Langstaff's car and trailer, they rescue a displaced alien, Rupert Lamsky, from a probable death by exposure. Somehow they find the heart to turn him in, for he is illegally in the country, but Rupert is afraid. When a news man comes in a New England town, he goes in fear.

It was in the third bar Greg entered a glass in his hand, he dollar bill on the counter before him. He caught sight of Greg and finished his drink in a hurry.

Greg stood beside him, trying to hold in his smoldering anger. "What are you drinking?"

"Brandy. It works faster."

Greg ordered another brandy for Rupert and beer for himself. "Why did you run away?"

"I thought this might be my last drink."

"Why did you think I'd turn you in?" In his outrage at this betrayal Greg forgot entirely that he had sponsored the idea only a few days earlier.

"It has happened to me before."

"Nothing is going to happen to you here. Just relax."

Greg pushed Rupert's dollar bill toward him and paid the check. After a moment's hesitation the color crept over Rupert's cheeks and his hand moved forward slowly. He pocketed the money.

That day Daggett insisted on driving longer than usual. It was not until they passed a roadhouse that he consented to stop for the night at a nearby trailer park. After he was settled in bed, with a book and cigarette within reach, he suggested, "Why don't you two go up for a drink?"

There were a dozen or more cars parked in front of the roadhouse but it seemed nearly

SOME of the girls weren't bad at all. In a few minutes one of them came up to him.

She smiled tentatively. "Hello, Goodlooking. Want to dance?"

"Why not?" Greg led her out on the floor. He was not a good dancer but the girl was expert and she made him feel better than he was. It was pleasant to have a woman in his arms and this one was not demanding. He bought her a drink and they danced again.

"Who is your handsome friend?" She sighed. "What a girl would give for those eyes and lashes. Wasted on a man."

"Want to meet him?"

Obviously she did, but business came before pleasure. "You are more my type. I'd rather talk to you."

She sat beside him in one of the little booths and moved close. Rupert left the bar and swerved toward the booth where Greg was sitting with the girl.

The girl gave him a melting glance. "Are you going to dance with me?"

"No," Rupert said. "Never do that. Never take away my friend's girl."

She laughed with mechanical brightness. "Say, you're good. Want to order some champagne? I'm crazy about champagne."

"No," Rupert said again. "No wine—no kick in it."

The girl answered this with an obliging scream of laughter. "No wine. No women. How do you feel about song?"

"Song?" Rupert echoed in his rasping voice. Abruptly he buried his face in his arms on the table. He was crying, hard, tearing sobs that shook his thin body.

The uneasy silence was broken by a man's embarrassed laughter. "What a crying jag."

Greg paid the bill, waited until Rupert was quiet, and then said, "Let's go."

HE got Rupert outside and they began to walk away from the roadhouse. Rupert staggered but he pulled the key from his pocket as though it were a talisman and tossed it from hand to hand.

At length Greg said quietly, "What happened to you?"

"One of Mussolini's boys," Rupert said. "I was singing at La Scala and this fellow was annoyed because I refused to sing for a Fascist gathering. He was persuasive. First he hung me by a strap and played a little tattoo on my back. For once there was no drama, no overstatement in his voice. He sounded unspeakably tired. Then—the pause lengthened until Greg thought he would not speak any more that night—they operated on my throat."

Greg leaned against the gate and lighted a cigarette. There was nothing to say. "So much has happened since then," Rupert went on, "but that was the thing that mattered most. My family is gone, my home, my country, my profession. I am practically an authority on concentration camps, on escapes, on crossing frontiers without a passport. It is a strange thing to belong nowhere, Greg. Even the ticking of a clock is like a voice saying, 'Move on. Move on. Move on.'"

He clung to the top post of the gate, turning the key over and over in his hand. "That is the key to the house my family moved into after the Fascists got me. My mother was killed and my two young sisters. He slipped the key back into his pocket. 'Not by Fascists or Nazis. It was an American bomb. War is like that. No one, you see, is to blame. Or all of us.'"

(To Be Continued)

CRITIC—R. C. Clendenen, staff director of the Senate committee on juvenile delinquency, says movies and TV tend to show the gangster lives a "kingly" life. At the end of the program there's supposed to be a moral—"Crime does not pay." But it paid off too well during the first part of the program to have any effect.

VISITOR—Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Jinnah of Pakistan, will visit the U. S. during October. A long-time friend of the U. S., he will be the guest of President Eisenhower during his stay.

VISITOR—Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlavi of Iran, plans to visit the U. S. in the very near future. Sources say he will come to America as soon as he signs Iran's new oil pact. Queen Soraya will accompany him.

LAUGH, CLOWN, LAUGH—His clown's regalia is insufficient to hide his emotion as "Grock," world-famous clown, leaves the arena for the last time in Frankfurt, Germany. In real life Dr. Adrian Wettach, he is escorted by his partner for more than 20 years, Alfred Schatz. The 74-year-old doctor, who dispensed laughter across the world during his 61-year career, will retire to his home in Switzerland.

POND CLEANER—This tractor-like boat is used in Russia to clear ponds of grass hampering the propagation of fish. A Maciejuska, a work team leader, is shown clearing a pond at a fish breeding farm in Lithuania. The prow of the boat is fitted with a scissors-type blade which cuts weeds at various lengths. Picture and caption material from an official Soviet source.

LILLIPUTIAN VILLAGE—The atmosphere of this model town at Wimborne, England, seems to delight Kay McGaughen. Her attention at the moment is fixed on an impressive replica of Wimborne minster.
